Industrial Employes Make Big Contribution To Fund—Plan Victory Dinner

Setting a new high for industrial participation in civic affairs, the industrial group of the United War Fund drive reported a total of $52,531 in pledges today at noon when a report luncheon was held in The Castle-ton hotel.

The transportation group added $1,007 to its previous contributions, bringing the noon total up to $53,538. Adding the morning total of $29,353 to this amount the grand total is now at $82,891, within sight of the goal of $90,000.

Almost without exception the industries exceeded their quota and went far beyond the totals of 1942. Some of the leaders today were: Shenango Pottery $16,827, Johnson Bronze Company $15,377, Standard Steel Spring Company $4,500, Universal Sanitary Manufacturing Company $3,102.

Victory Dinner December 1
With the unusual totals at hand today at noon it was decided that a Victory Dinner will be held Tuesday night, December 1, in The Castle-ton at which time the finals will be turned in. There is still much canvassing to do, and it now appears that the goal of $90,000 will be reached.

PA NEW OBSERVES

An albino sparrow has been staying around Mrs. Fred G. Hill's place on the Weigeltown road since last spring. She tells us he mingles with the other birds without seeming self-conscious about being different from them.

Earlier than ever mailing of Christmas packages is urged by the post office department this year. Unusual conditions are confronted which demand that much more time be given for handling of the usual huge amount of holiday mail. Get the mail in early.

Due to the necessity of elimination of unessential telephone calls for the duration of the war, and especially on holidays, there will be no telephone score service on the football game on Thanksgiving Day at The News. No phone inquiries about the game can be answered by The News. The same condition has prevailed throughout the football season, because of the abnormal demand for telephone calls of essential nature.

Being able to give, of one's own free will, to the nation's war effort by buying bonds is a privilege unheard of in dictatorship countries, where money one earns is mostly for the government.

Yanks, Australians Closing In On Japs

By LEE VAN ATTA
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Nov. 24.—American and Australian ground forces today tightened their grip on Japanese troops pinned along the coastal area of southeast New Guinea between Gona and Buna. Jungle-wise Australian soldiers smashed their way into the Jap base of Gona and were pressing the Japs southward toward Sanananda, half-way point to Buna.

Closing Gap
The Americans, with other Australian units moving in rapidly, closed the gap between themselves and beleaguered enemy troops at Buna, capturing Cape Endiaderre on the cost two miles southeast of Buna.

After crushing Jap resistance at Cape Endiaderre the Americans, flown into New Guinea prior to the arrival of Gen. Douglas MacArthur at the battlefield, marched toward Cape Gairopa.

The enveloping moves of both the Americans and Australians confined the Japs in a comparatively restricted area and resulted in the fiercest fighting which has developed so far in the campaign.

The Japs battled ferociously for every inch of ground as they were brought to bay by the allied troops.

Special U. S. Mission Is Going To Algiers; Dakar Joins Allies

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The United States government, it was learned on reliable authority today, is preparing to send a special mission to Algiers to handle economic and other relations with French North Africa.

While the extension of lend-lease economic aid to French Africa will be carried out by the American military authorities for the time being, the governmental mission eventually will work out a trade arrangement with Admiral Jean Darlan's French administration.

Some members of the mission may also act as diplomatic liaison officers between the United States and the French authorities in North Africa.

Dakar With Allies
Meanwhile, official Washington was elated over reports that Admiral Darlan has won Dakar over to the Allied side.

Attractive Blonde Woman Is Found Slain At Palo Alto, California

(International News Service)
PALO ALTO, Cal., Nov. 24.—Armed with fingerprints, authorities today sought a shipyard worker suspected of the brutal bludgeoning slaying of an attractive blonde woman, whose body was discovered in a field near the Stanford university campus at Palo Alto.

The victim was tentatively identified as Bernice Curtis, 27, who came to San Francisco two months ago from Chicago, and had been employed at a downtown cigar store stand.

Sought was "a shipyard worker, named Frank" with whom the victim had a date, according to information supplied police by Mrs. Ash and Miss Martin.

The victim's body was found yesterday morning by a Palo Alto dairy worker, who noticed the woman's body lying face down in one of the furrows of a newly plowed field about two miles south of Palo Alto.

Investigators called to the scene said the girl had died of a fractured skull but had not been criminally attacked.

Ship Sinks After Collision In Fog

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—A loaded United Nations merchantman sunk in 26 feet of water off Brooklyn's Red Hook section today after colliding during a fog with another United Nations ship which sustained only minor damage.

The navy department said its report on the mishap made no mention of loss of life or injury to seamen.

The steamship line to which the sunken ship belonged immediately dispatched lighters to the scene to remove the cargo.

Fierce Aerial Duels Develop Over Tunisia

Air Supremacy Sought By Allies Before Large Scale Land Attacks On Nazis

AXIS FORCES GET MORE BOMBERS

American And British Forces Preparing For Heavy Attacks On Axis Bases

By LEO V. DOLAN
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Fierce aerial duels were fought today over North Africa between Allied and Axis pilots in a battle to determine air supremacy before American, British and French troops unleashed their main assault to take German and Italian held bases in Tunisia.

Dispatches from Allied headquarters in North Africa said that air warfare had developed into a grim and bitter struggle over the highly contested French protectorate situated on the Mediterranean coast between American-occupied Algeria and Italian Libya.

The port of Algiers, according to the Morocco radio, underwent four air raids during the night as Axis aircraft raided the city. Several enemy planes were said to have been destroyed by American defense forces, but not before the Axis craft had inflicted some damage. Algiers was kept in a state of alarm until seven a. m. this morning, the Morocco broadcast said.

A fairly large number of bombs were dropped and a number of people killed and injured, it was asserted.

Somaliand To Join
Less than 24 hours after announcement that West Africa, including the vital port and naval base of Dakar, had come over to the side of the Allies, the Algiers radio said that French Somaliand was expected to join the United Nations soon.

The air is the key to the whole present phase of operations," an American spokesman at Allied headquarters said even as grueling air engagements were in progress.

As opposing forces maneuvered, no attempt was made at headquarters to conceal that the ensuing week will be the most crucial phase of the North African campaign.

Developments will determine whether the Germans and Italians can be ousted hurriedly from their positions or whether a long and difficult contest must be fought. The Axis strength is found in their

American Possession Of Dakar Is Notable Gain For Allied Cause

By CAPTAIN JOHN H. CRAIGIE
Written Especially for International News Service

By a diplomatic triumph no less sweeping and decisive than victory in war, but far less expensive in lives and treasure, American forces came into possession of Dakar, much-discussed French naval base on the bulge of Africa where the land-masses of the old world and the new come close to meeting.

Only about 1,800 miles separate Dakar from Recife, Brazil, nearest city on the western hemisphere, and this distance can be traversed today by fast bombers in less than six hours.

In addition to its proximity to the South American mainland, Dakar possessed great strategic importance because it was the last naval base south of Gibraltar, that might have fallen into Axis hands

Russians Forcing Nazis Back In Southern Suburbs Of Stalingrad

By W. W. CHAPLIN
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Nov. 24.—Battered Nazi shock troops were put to flight today from the southern suburbs of Stalingrad as the gigantic two-pronged Red army offensive north and south of the beleaguered Volga city gained in momentum.

Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's forces northwest of Stalingrad, driving roughshod over Nazi legions in the area of the Don River Bend, crushed German resistance and occupied several strategic inhabited localities in their relentless advance.

EDITOR'S NOTE: A Reuter dispatch from Moscow said that tempo of the Soviet advance had not slackened. Major General Christakov's forces are chasing the enemy at top-speed, particularly in several sectors south of Stalingrad where the German retreat was described as "disorderly."

November Draft Induction Finds Large Number Called For Examination

Local selectees, summoned for their final examination by New Castle Board Two, went to Erie this morning for their final examination prior to induction into the service. The group represented half of the large number of men called for service by the board. The remainder will leave tomorrow. Men from County Board Two were examined at Erie yesterday.

Men residing in the jurisdiction of City Board One will leave the latter part of the week.

The men being called up this month will receive but one week's furlough, instead of two weeks as has been the custom for several months past, the period of waiting having been reduced under orders issued earlier in the month.

Forewarned ceremonies will be conducted next week under the auspices of the Lawrence County Service Men's Aid Association.

Where Russians Strike Back

As this Central Press map shows, the Russian counter-offensive at and north of Stalingrad has turned the familiar eastern front "arrows" from east to west—a welcome change to the Allies. The Red Army has now forced breaches in the German lines above and west of Kleuskava, at Kalach, which they now occupy, and near Stalingrad at Karassnoarmeisk.

American Planes Make Record-Breaking Flights 7,500 Miles To India

(International News Service)
NEW DELHI, Nov. 24.—Record-breaking flights by American aircraft over a distance of some 7,500 miles from the United States to India, including a journey by one bomber in only 60 hours and 12 minutes, were reported today by Brig. Gen. Clayton L. Bissel, commander of the 10th U. S. Army Air Force.

Gen. Bissel said that American air forces in India were being steadily reinforced by planes flown directly from the United States. The average flight, he said, takes about 98 hours.

The general revealed that to date not one American heavy bomber used in attacks against Jap-held Burma has been hit by gunfire from either ground batteries or enemy aircraft.

Army Demands Cleanup Of Vice In Pittsburgh

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Nov. 24.—The army today demanded that Pittsburgh authorities rid the city of vice or it would do it for them.

Dr. E. W. Norris, liaison officer of the army's third service command, Baltimore, conferred with City Health Director Dr. I. Hope Alexander and declared:

"The army is dissatisfied with the enforcement of laws against vice in Pittsburgh and is demanding that local authorities get busy."

"Next to colds and respiratory diseases, venereal diseases are the greatest problem in the army, and caused the greatest number of ineffective days. The rate is lower than in World War I, because we have better drugs and better methods of control, but it is still away too high."

Dr. Norris added that "promiscuous young girls" are giving army and civilian authorities added cause for worry.

THREE WOMEN GET PRISON SENTENCES

Date For Execution Is Set For January 22 At "Place In Illinois"

By SAUL PETT
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

(CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—The high crime of treason today brought a sentence of death in the electric chair to three German-born men and long prison terms and fines for their wives.

The six convicted traitors, all naturalized citizens of German birth were sentenced by Federal Judge William J. Campbell in U. S. District Court as a "warning to all who would attempt to commit the smallest act of sabotage, as well as those who could treasonably traffic with the enemies of the United States."

Convicted In November

The defendants were convicted Nov. 14 of aiding, harboring and protecting Herbert Hans Haupt, since executed as a German saboteur.

Condemned to follow him to the electric chair on January 22, 1943, were the spy's father, Hans Max Haupt, his uncle, Walter Froehling, and his friend, Otto Richard Wergin.

Each of the women was sentenced to 25 years imprisonment and to a fine of $10,000. They were Erna Haupt, Lucille Froehling and Kate Marsha Wergin.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The state department today revealed the receipt of a message from Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov hailing the allied victories in Africa as strengthening the assurance that the "military alliance of our countries and all liberty-loving peoples will bring about full triumph over the common enemy, Hitlerian tyranny."

Molotov's message, dated Nov. 21, was sent to Secretary of State Hull in reply to the latter's greeting to the Soviet Union on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the founding of the Soviet republic.

Charge Extortion Scheme To Germany

Ransom Scheme Being Attempted

Netherlands Government In Exile Makes Charges Of New Nazi Effort

WILL NOT YIELD TO NEW DEMANDS

(International News Service)
LONDON, Nov. 24.—The Netherlands government in exile charged today that Germany has organized a vast scheme of extorting ransom from persons in neutral and Allied territories for release of relatives and friends from Holland and other occupied lands.

A statement declared that the Netherlands government, after consultation with the British and United States governments, had decided not to yield "to German attempts at extortion," and warned all Dutchmen that contributing such ransom would violate the Netherlands law covering traffic with the enemy.

The German extortion attempts are made with threats that relatives and friends in occupied territories will be sent to concentration camps, the statement said, declaring sums demanded were sometimes as high as 5,000 pounds sterling per person.

Payment of such ransom, the Netherlands government declared, would enable the enemy "to stave off the day of his defeat" and would encourage the Germans to exercise increased pressure.

Combat Traffic

The government intends to combat this traffic in exit permits with every means, in cooperation with the British and United States governments, the statement continued.

"More particularly, they will act against those who participated in or facilitate this traffic with motives of profit."

A similar statement, for the British government, was made today in the House of Lords by Lord Selborne, who warned that all persons making such ransom payments or facilitating such ransom payments would be regarded as "engaged in transactions for the benefit of the enemy."

They would be put on the Allied blacklist, made subject to British counter-measures and, if living in Britain, would be prosecuted under the trading with the Enemy Act, Lord Selborne added.

The British spokesman said evidence reaching the British, American and Dutch governments "leaves no doubt that this traffic is being organized by the German government and its agents on a considerable scale in order to increase the enemy's foreign currency resources."

Names of the first two persons to be blacklisted by the British, as reported by the British Ministry of Economic Warfare, are Dr. A. Weidner, 98 Bauhofstrasse, Zurich, a Swiss lawyer, and Mrs. Anna Hochberg, Hotel Peter, Zurich. Other cases are being investigated in Switzerland, Spain and Portugal.

Official Dutch sources, at the same time, disclosed several cases of attempted extortion of ransom by the German authorities.

shedding of any blood was hailed as a triumph of the first magnitude for the United Nations cause, and further justification for the deal which Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of American forces in North Africa, made with Darian.

Decision of Pierre Boisson, high commissioner of French West Africa, to place himself at the disposal of Admiral Darian, did not come entirely as a surprise to American officials. Boisson is known to have been strongly anti-Nazi and it was believed that the German occupation of all France and the American liberation of North Africa would swing him away from Vichy.

Port Available

While it is not clear whether the powerful French fleet at Dakar will immediately join the United Nations, it is felt that Boisson's action will at least lead to an agreement making that port available to American forces.

The next step, in the view of American officials, is to round up the Axis agents who are known to be in Dakar. Presence of those agents there is considered a menace to Allied operations in West Africa.

With the virtual capitulation of Dakar, all of French Africa except Tunis now is either under Allied control or neutralized.

Recent reports received in Washington indicated that one of the most powerful units of the French fleet is stationed at Dakar. The warships there are reported to include the battleship Richelieu, the cruisers Gloire, Montcalm, and Georges Leygues; the destroyers Fantasque, Malin, and Terrible; 12 submarines, 10 cutters and other light craft. All these ships are relatively new.

The fighting appeared heaviest in the Buna area where the Japs hold well-prepared machine-gun positions and have numerous snipers hidden in trees.

AMERICAN POSSESSION OF DAKAR IS NOTABLE GAIN FOR U. S. CAUSE

extent, about the size of the entire United States, with a population of a little less than 30,000,000. All this has been completely gained to the cause of the United Nations in a little less than a fortnight. And the cost, according to Washington, totals approximately 1,910 casualties, of whom only 360 are listed as killed.

More astonishing and spectacular success would be difficult to imagine. These colonial realms of France possessed considerable supplies of munitions and an abundance of fighting men. Had they determined to resist to the last, they might have held up Lieut. Gen. Eisenhower's forces for weeks, perhaps months, and exacted a tremendous toll in Americans killed and wounded.

Importance Stressed

The wealth and strategic importance of the territories gained almost without firing a shot, can hardly be exaggerated. Many long and costly campaigns have been waged for their possession through history from the time Rome's Scipio fought Carthage's Hannibal, 2,000 years ago, to the French campaign in the Riff against Abd El Krim, of the 1920's.

A most striking justification of the policy of the state department in maintaining relations with Vichy after the fall of France, and keeping wily old Admiral "Bill" Leahy in Marshal Petain's capital would be hard to conceive.

Unquestionably it was Admiral Leahy's kindly and understanding treatment of the vanquished French that paved the way for General Eisenhower's astonishing triumph.

Gain to the United Nations caused by French possession of Dakar should be considerable, although its removal as a potential menace is of much more importance than acquisition of its facilities.

Capital of French Senegal, it has a port with extensive deep-water harborage, several drydocks and considerable stores of ammunition, fuel and supplies. Its location, 1,500 miles south of Gibraltar, gave it tremendous significance as a potential Axis base. Should be two weeks traveling time nearer United Nations supply lines to South America and around Africa than those based on any port in Europe.

Added menace to Dakar's naval base and airport in Axis hands would be the threat to the United Nations bases at British Gambia, and Freeport, principal British port in west Africa about 300 miles beyond.

Interesting problem concerns what will become of the French super-dreadnaught Richelieu, the three cruisers and numerous smaller craft in Dakar harbor.

Statements and opinions herein are private of the writer and are not to be construed as reflecting the views of the navy department.

The Axis-held naval base of Bizerte in Tunisia was heavily bombed Sunday night, the communiqué said, and aircraft lying in dispersal areas were hit.

Allied planes also successfully strafed enemy air base at Palermo, Sicily.

Aircraft Shot Down

At least three large Axis aircraft were shot down off the east coast of Tunisia yesterday by Allied fighters.

Cannon-carrying planes simultaneously attacked an enemy schooner.

Advanced British forces were reported within 30 to 40 miles of El Ag'zila, on the southern shore of the Gulf of Sicily.

BATTERED NAZI SHOCK TROOPS PUT TO FLIGHT

the Germans were in head-long flight to the south of Chernyshevskaya, about 110 miles west of Stalingrad.

Pursue Enemy

"In the southern suburbs of Stalingrad," the Soviet high command announced at noon, "our successful offensive action continues. Our troops are pursuing the enemy."

The communiqué revealed that on another sector of the northwest front, where the Russians smashed forward 110 miles west of Stalingrad and captured Chernyshevskaya, 60 miles northwest of Kalach, Soviet troops pushed their way into an inhabited locality after slaying 1,000 Nazis.

The high command said that the enemy offered no organized resistance at this point and that capture of the town was effected after a short engagement.

Inside the shell-pocked and burned-out Volga metropolis Soviet defense forces, heartened by the success of Marshal Timoshenko's dual offensive to lift the siege of the city, held back the Nazis in the city.

Formidable counter-assaults were launched against German and Rumanian troops in the west Caucasus where the Red army captured 45 enemy positions northwest of the Black Sea naval base of Tuapse, the high command said.

New Successes

Soviet army leaders reported also that their forces were winning new successes in local fighting in the mid-Caucasus battle area around Nalchik.

Capture of Chernyshevskaya was achieved by the northern Red army column participating in the double-barreled offensive which first laid waste to the Don northwest of Stalingrad and then drove a deep wedge into the German lines.

"The tightening of the Russian pincers on the south left the Axis armies besieging Stalingrad a 40-mile wide corridor for retreatment provided they decide to retreat before the two Russian armies make a junction inside the Don Bend."

Soviet forces were marked with heavy new enemy casualties and capture and destruction of material.

24,000 Prisoners

More than 13,000 Axis troops were taken as prisoners in Monday's fighting, and 11,000 prisoners taken. This raised casualties since the beginning of the offensive to 26,000 dead and 24,000 prisoners.

Equipment captured included 557 guns, 2,826 trucks, 1,200 railroad cars, 2,625 machine guns, 32 aircraft and 35 tanks. In addition, 70 aircraft, 157 tanks and 186 guns were destroyed in Monday's actions.

The military expert of the Daily Express estimated that Axis losses in the Stalingrad offensive were at least 60,000 dead and captured in the first four days of fighting.

DEATH SENTENCE GIVEN THREE ON TREASON CHARGE

the women here involved, it also has been incumbent on the court to consider the millions of suffering mothers of boys who are fighting this war for us, and the mothers who toil in aluminum and powder plants or on production lines in constant danger from saboteurs.

The place of execution was mentioned only as "a place in Illinois to be designated later."

Crimes Charged

The defendants' crime, the government contended, was this: After young Haupt returned to Chicago June 19, they all fed, lodged and conspired to conceal his identity as an enemy agent from the authorities. Approximately $15,000 in Nazi funds which young Haupt was given for sabotage expenses was hidden for the Haupt family and Haupt homes.

The Haupt family bought their son an automobile with which to transport other saboteurs.

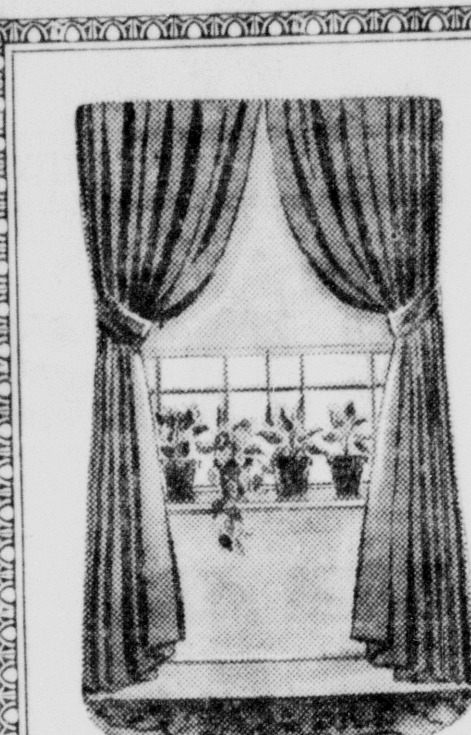

In all, the government charged 41 overt acts of treason, and against the Haupt family, chief defense counsel Paul Warrnholz declined to present a case, contending the prosecution had failed to prove its arguments.

The age of the defendants ranges from Haupt's 48 years to Mrs. Froehling's 32. They all are or have been parents. The Froehlings have two children, both under 10, and the Wergins have a 20-year-old daughter, Irene, and a son Wolfgang who is believed to be serving with the German army.

Young Wergin had accompanied the Haupt family only child when the two left the United States in 1941 and travelled through Mexico and Japan to Germany, running the British blockade.

Before sentence was passed, Warrnholz announced he would appeal the case, and if necessary, would carry to the supreme court his fight to free his clients.

Golden Anniversary Plans For Mr. And Mrs. Wm. E. Emery

Mr. and Mrs. William E. Emery, of Mt. Jackson, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on Friday, Nov. 27, at the Westfield Grange hall, on the Enon-New Castle road. They will receive informally at "open house" during the afternoon from two until four o'clock at the Grange hall, while in the evening at their own residence, in Mt. Jackson, guests will call from seven until nine o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Emery have resided in North Beaver township their entire married lives. She was the former Elizabeth Pitts, of the same township, prior to her marriage to Mr. Emery. They were united in holy wedlock by the late Dr. William M. Taylor, then pastor of the Westfield Presbyterian church.

Sharing this memorable occasion, the highly esteemed couple will be joined by their son, Harry E. Emery, and family, a sister and brother of Mrs. Emery, Mrs. Margaret Martin, of North Beaver township, and Albert W. Pitts, of San Diego, Cal. Harry W. Emery, also of North Beaver township, brother of Mr. Emery, and a number of nieces and nephews.

A cordial invitation is extended to their host of friends to share in the occasion.

ART ASSOCIATION HAS DINNER AT HIGH SCHOOL

Members of the Lawrence County Art Association met for dinner at 6:30 Monday evening in the home economics rooms of the senior high school.

Stencil work, under the supervision of Miss Mary McBride, was the art study for the evening. The technique of both painting on cloth and water-color stencils was studied.

Later, Mrs. Paul T. Hoagland, high school home economics teacher, a bride November 14, was the recipient of a kitchen shower. Mrs. Hoagland was in charge of arrangements for last night's dinner, assisted by Miss Rosena McGurk.

Paul Hiele, of the American Crayon Company, was present at the meeting.

Christmas meeting of the association will be at the Castleton, December 14. Plans are being made to bring Emmy Zweybruck, noted artist, as a guest for the January meeting.

C. D. OF A. COURT CHARITY CARD PARTY

Annual charity card party of the Catholic Daughters of America, Court Teresa Irene No. 231, was held Monday evening in the K. of C. home, North Jefferson street.

Tables of bridge, 500 and contests were in play, winners being Mrs. Anne Mulcahy, Mrs. Anna Duff and Clare Duff, respectively.

On Monday, November 30, C. D. of A. will have a day of recollection in St. Mary's church. A communion breakfast will be served in St. Mary's church following mass. Reservations for the breakfast will be received until Friday.

Rachel Rebekah Lodge

Rachel Rebekah Lodge No. 40 met in the I. O. O. F. hall on Monday evening with Mrs. Mary Caravella presiding.

Plans were completed for a membership and attendance contest. Three team captains, red, white and blue, were named; they are respectively, Mrs. Charlotte Phipps, Mrs. Lillian Sumner and Mrs. Susie Waid.

Afterwards, a social time was enjoyed with tables of 500 and other games in play. Mrs. Viola Buell, Mrs. Zetta Burke, Agnes Thompson and Camilla Boyd were prize winners.

On December 14 the lodge will have a birthday party in the form of a 6 o'clock tureen supper at the hall.

Westminster Graduate To Wed

The engagement of Miss Sara Black, of Butler, Pa., a graduate of Westminster College, to C. Wade Bryant, Jr., of Pittsburgh, has been announced by Miss Black's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur O. Black, of Butler. Mr. Bryant is a son of Mrs. C. Wade Bryant, of Pittsburgh.

The prospective bride, who attended graduate school at the University of Michigan after her graduation from Westminster, is a member of the Butler senior high school faculty. Her fiancée, a graduate of Pennsylvania State College, is a metallurgical engineer for Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation.

Anniversary Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Rhynne Fabian of Chestnut street entertained at a dinner on Sunday in honor of Mrs. Fabian's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eli M. Byler of Covert Station road, on their 31st wedding anniversary. Music and chat were enjoyed after dinner and congratulations extended to Mr. and Mrs. Byler by the guests. Mary Teresa Byler assisted the hostess.

D. O. F. Club

Mrs. Judy Covert Reynolds entertained the D. O. F. club recently at her home.

During the social hour which ensued, Mrs. Hilda Camuso received the club token.

A delicious lunch was served later, Mrs. Dorothy Vago assisting the hostess. Special guest was Mrs. Ann Parkanon.

On December 3, Mrs. Hilda Camuso, South Jefferson street, will be the hostess.

PARROTT-ALFERA ENGAGEMENT NEWS

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Parrott, of R. D. 7, Mahoningtown, announce the engagement of their daughter, Rose, to Frank Alfera, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Alfera, of 724 Pearson street.

The engagement was made known at a family gathering held this week. No date has been set for the wedding.

Linton-Brooks

Miss Dorothy May Linton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Linton, was married to Isaac Charles Brooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Brooks, 5 West Edison avenue, at a ceremony performed Monday evening, November 23, at 7:30 in the parsonage of the Calvary Gospel tabernacle.

Rev. R. J. Fredericks officiated in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. William Fronius, sister and brother-in-law of the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks are now on a short wedding trip, after which they will be at home temporarily with the bride's mother.

Mrs. Brooks, a graduate of Union high school, is employed at the Shenango Pottery. Mr. Brooks is employed at the Carnegie-Illinois Steel plant in Youngstown.

E. E. E. Club

Mrs. Joseph Todd, of County Line street, entertained the E. E. E. Club membership in her home Monday evening, with tables of bridge forming the pastime.

Mrs. James Kearns and Miss Bernadette Semler won the prizes. The former also carried off the galleon trophy.

Mrs. Daniel Quinn, a special guest, received a hostess remembrance.

After partaking of a tasty lunch, they planned to meet again in two weeks with Mrs. Charles Hogue, of Neshannock avenue.

OWI'S PLEDGE TO THE PUBLIC

ELMER DAVIS' statement that the Office of War Information has announced, to date, the loss of every American major ship which has been sunk or otherwise destroyed, is reassuring to the public. Mr. Davis says "we have suffered no disasters or defeats which have not been reported." The names of ships damaged in action and the extent of the damage are withheld.

With the added qualification that OWI will not pledge itself to publish immediately the full facts of an engagement, Mr. Davis' policy is now clearly defined. If he is able to maintain this straight-forward course, there will be less excuse than ever for the rumor-mongering which he so rightly condemns.

The gallant exploits of our Navy in the Pacific have already disposed of some wild reports that were widely circulated at the very time that body blows were being delivered to the foe. Mr. Davis will not be rushed into divulging information of value to the enemy, but he realizes the public's right to have the facts at the earliest feasible moment. It wants the whole truth as soon as it can safely be told. Mr. Davis promises this policy which, to say the least, was not always observed by his predecessors in charge of war information.

AIR LINE FAN FROM AFRICA

On a map of Europe which shows the edge of North Africa draw an isosceles triangle with its lower left corner at Gibraltar, its lower right corner at Tunis—and the point will touch London. A plane leaving the British metropolis would have about the same distance to travel whether it flew to the great rock fortress at the tip of Spain, or to the port of Tunis. Such a diagram may be used to reveal some of the seasons for the importance of the Allied victory in Morocco.

Bombers or planes of men and supplies leaving London no longer have to depend upon the one safe landing place at Gibraltar, but may choose any of several destinations along the North African coast. The airline distance from London to Gibraltar is 1,094 miles, slightly more than that from London to Rome. The great advantage now is that British or American planes from England may refuel and get repairs at the end of a journey to Africa; hence, planes of relatively short range may be used to cross France.

Though England has always been advantageously placed for the bombing raids of the R. A. F. on France, Germany and northern Italy, certain airline distances from the newly captured area are worth consideration by those who like to conjecture about the various uses to which occupation of North Africa may be put. For comparison a few examples will suffice. From Tangier, Morocco, to Paris is but 970 miles, about the distance between New York and Chicago. From Oran, Algeria, to Rome is a shorter air line than from New York to New Orleans, and from Oran to Berlin considerably shorter than from New York to Denver. Moreover, communication with the armed forces on the Nile is not difficult; a flight from northern Morocco to Port Said, Egypt, is little longer than that from New York to Mexico City; while the distance from Oran across Europe to Moscow is not so long as the distance from New York to Seattle. These are conservative estimates, for they take no account of the strategic value of airfields of the Allies in North Africa closer to Tunis than those here cited.

QUALITY OF MERCY

Francisco Largo Caballero and Santiago Casares Quiroga are two former Spanish Republican leaders whose names have just reappeared in news dispatches from abroad.

Both served the Loyalist government of Spain during the civil war as premier and war minister. Both escaped to France when Franco won with the open assistance of Germany and Italy. Both have been allowed to live in unoccupied France despite efforts of the Franco regime to get them back to face charges.

Both now are reported back in Spain—as prisoners facing court-martial. They were arrested when German and Italian troops swarmed into unoccupied France after the American and British invasion of North Africa. The Germans and Italians handed them over to Franco and informed quarters in Madrid "regard it as fairly certain that they will be sentenced to death."

Caballero and Quiroga fought against Franco, Hitler and Mussolini. They fought for the constituted government of Spain and by no stretch of the imagination could be accused of treason.

It is bitterly ironic that the invasion of North Africa by the forces bent on the destruction of the Nazi-Fascist way of life should lead to the arrest and probable execution of two patriots who fought against Nazi-Fascist aggression and appealed in vain for help from the great nations.

Ruthlessness is a savage Axis characteristic which will hardly serve as a mitigating circumstance when the day of retribution comes.

INVESTOR CONFIDENCE

A foreign dollar bond on Wall Street is more susceptible to good and bad news in the war than the thermometer is to heat and cold.

When American troops, disembarked in North Africa there was an excited flutter in the foreign bond list, no longer very extensive in New York market. The dollar bonds from overseas suddenly began to dance. This was true of the Norway bonds, the Norway Municipal Bank bonds, the Denmark bonds, the Copenhagen bonds, and the City of Prague bonds.

All of these issues advanced several points in price. In no instance was the advance sensational but it was sufficient to be noticeable on an otherwise dull day on the exchange.

The lift in these bonds meant that investors in New York renewed their confidence in the winning of the war by the Allies. The hard-boiled investor does not act on impulse. He evades emotion. He sizes up a situation as cold-bloodedly as he can, which means that his study of a subject is in an atmosphere far below zero.

It is said that the sit-down strike started in France and look where France is today.

One interesting parlor game for these long winter evenings is guessing on what ticket Mr. LaGuardia will run next time.

Opera by radio seems more genuine to preserve choice: a union of nations to preserve world order, or another war twenty years from now.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

ABOUT COLLEGE FRATERNITIES

In response to my recent article on college fraternities, a college student writes: "Parents often act very stupidly on fraternity questions and cause their sons great unhappiness and grief. I have seen three major tragedies occur recently which were due solely to the parental attitude and influence."

The first two were caused by fathers who were fraternity men in their days and wanted very much to have their sons join their old fraternity. This is the most ruthless thing a father could do to his boy. "Most" fraternities are national organizations with anywhere from 30 to 115 chapters located throughout the United States in various colleges.

"Because there is no one personality controlling the tastes of college men in choosing fraternity brothers, no fraternity is made up of entirely good or entirely bad chapters. Chapters vary from school to school. Where a fraternity may have a reputation for rowdiness and drinking in one school, they may be top house on the campus of another school, so that although when Dad went to his college his fraternity was tops, when sonny gets there it may very well be on the bottom."

"A parent should be careful to point this out to his son. Failure to do so may mean tragedy to the son. . . . One boy this year who was having great trouble to decide between one house and another said frankly that he liked one group better but that his father was an—and that after all it was his father who was putting him through school and the least he could do was to please his father and join the fraternity of which his father happened to be a member 25 years before in some other college."

"Another boy, who felt deeply obliged to his widowed mother, was told by her when he left that he could pledge any fraternity but and that fraternity happened to be the best at his school. The mother's opinion had been formed from one chapter at the school where her husband had taught, where the forbidden fraternity was rather disreputable."

"His Father's Advice
"The boy's best friend who had roomed with him at a hotel during rush week had had good sound advice from his father who had pointed out the basis on which to judge a fraternity and told his son much of what I have said above. That boy joined the fraternity from which his friend had been forbidden."

"The average boy who comes to college and faces the fraternity situation is definitely green and incapable of making careful decisions; is highly susceptible to fast talking, and is unable to weigh facts."

"The wise father gives more than parting advice to his son. He has years been teaching him to weigh the pros and cons of a situation before making a decision."

Solving Parent Problems
Q. What do you think of fraternities and sororities and the like in high schools?

A. I think they should be outlawed, especially in these times. Some state legislatures have forbidden them to meet in school buildings.

Q. You have often discussed various types of eating problems with the child at various ages. I wonder where I might read something you have written more in detail on these problems. Please send me anything you have on this matter in the enclosed, stamped envelope.

A. It was sent. Anyone else might receive the same.

Global feeding station, Herbert Lehman, manager.

There are 130 millions of us with our feet under the dining room table. Have we got chairs for 500 million more?

That's the estimate of the number of persons involved in this feeding plan.

Can our farms produce enough to feed 630 millions?

Have we been shipping enough to feed 500 millions around the world?

And who is going to pay the bill?

We don't know, we're just asking.

We do know that many items have disappeared from our grocer's shelves, that shipping is tight, that we aren't going to have any dough.

And we do know that you can't distribute food you haven't got, in ships you haven't got, paid for by people who haven't got any money.

Thought for the day: You've got a job governor!

The Kingdom of heaven is like to a grain of mustard seed, which a man took and sowed in his field: Which indeed is the least of all seeds, but when it is grown, it is the greatest among herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the air come and lodge in the branches thereof.

DON'T FORGET YOUR THANK YOU

"Women continually complain at what they call the diminishing chivalry of men, yet women's habit of thanking men for such courtesies as they receive is diminishing in even greater proportion. I seldom give my seat to a woman in a street car, these days, and get thanked for my trouble and discomfort."

Answer: I have often heard this complaint. I really think that masculine manners have reached the degree of carelessness where many women are really so surprised at such courtesies that they wonder whether they are offered as a prelude to a pickup. In any event, the woman who does not thank any stranger frisky or sedate, old or young, male or female, black or white, for such a courtesy is committing a serious breach of good taste. There is a certain dignity in proper acknowledgements of this category that plainly indicates, even the most aggressive "mascher" that further conversation has been resented. If proper courtesy has been taught in the home during childhood the recipient will thank servants for these attentions, thank bank tellers for cashing their checks, thank checkroom girls for handing them their coats, thank the ticket seller when she gives you a transfer, thank the policeman for information, thank the manicurist when she finishes your nails, the doctor when he hands you his prescription, even your husband when he holds out your chair at table.

Question: I am invited to two bridal showers and expect a wedding invitation also. Does this mean that I must give this girl three gifts—two showers gifts and one wedding gift?—J. R.

Answer: Yes, you must give a wedding gift, even though you have given shower gifts, and you must give a gift at each shower to which you are invited.

Roosevelt Impatient For Legislation
Desires Program Finished By January
Next Session May Not Follow Dictates

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Administration workers at the Capitol are worn to a frazzle by their efforts for legislation, greatly desired by President Roosevelt, before Jan. 3, when the present 77th Congress will be done with, and the recently elected 78th batch of lawmakers will begin transacting business.

The administrationists have been in a desperate rush for the reason, of course, that they considered the present Congress far likelier to comply with presidential wishes than they expect the incoming one to be. Hence the fever of impatience for action before the current year's end.

It's true that, if what's legislated before the 77th's final adjournment, proves to be sufficiently distasteful to the 78th outfit, the latter can do any amount of repealing. However, the theory's been that what's done is harder to undo than having it on hand, updone, in the first place. Besides, if the 78th boys do indulge in a good bit of repealing, the president can reciprocate with a corresponding volume of vetoes, and passage of a congressional measure over a White House veto is rather difficult.

What's bothered the administrationists is the fact that THIS Congress, not to mention the 78th, has developed a deal more recalcitrancy than was anticipated.

Less Enthusiasm
Last Nov. 3 Democratic election loss probably has had something to do with it. A Congressman who has seen his party heavily socked at the polls, is apt to have had more or less of his enthusiasm jolted out of him, even though himself re-elected. And if he's just been beaten and simply is serving out a couple of months of an expiring term before surrendering his seat to the chap who defeated him, it scarcely is to be supposed that he'll have a victor's pep in his system.

The fact is, though, that these "lame ducks" are standing in line rather better than they were looked for. The explanation's simple enough. A simply re-elected Congressman still has his job to console him.

The World and the Mud Puddles

DEHYDRATION IS HERE

Make way for a revolution. Dehydration is its name. Old as the pyramids of Egypt, yet new as tomorrow, dehydration promises to overhaul a critical shipping shortage, transform the eating habits of millions, and establish in this nation the foundations of a great and expanding industry.

All this may sound a bit extravagant, particularly in terms of 1939. But a war-born shipping shortage has been an enormous stimulus to the production of dried foods for shipment to our allies and armed forces abroad. Where it requires one hundred twenty-five thousand tons of shipping space for twenty-seven million pounds of potatoes, that same quantity of potatoes dehydrated can be moved in fifteen thousand tons of shipping space with every vitamin intact.

Where in 1940, the country's total production of dehydrated foods was six million pounds, last year it leaped to fifteen million pounds. This year's is certain to be far higher. In addition, war needs claiming the bulk of our tin supply, are leading canners to seek a solution in dehydrated foods, which require no container, weigh less and preserve all food values. Already many canneries are installing dehydrated equipment, and doubtless store shelves will soon be displaying an array of dried goods.

Such developments today spread swiftly, distribution lines tap thousands of retail outlets. Their labor and cost-saving routes assure an immediate and nationwide market, as their farmer-consumer campaigns of the last six years, have proved.

The revolution being wrought by large-scale dehydration appears to be no flash in the sauce-pot. Its future is bright with promise.

The Poll Tax And Other Things

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.

ONE THING is to be said of the bombastic, exaggerated and frequently absurd statements which flow so freely from Mr. Philip Murray, of the CIO—there are so many of them and they are on so wide a variety of subjects that they make less and less impression. He covers too much territory.

MR. MURRAY'S latest outburst concerns the poll-tax filibuster. Urging the adoption of the pending bill, he proclaimed that the nation stood "aghast" and "enraged" at the tactics of a "small bloc of Senators" who had been conducting the filibuster which ended Friday. Of course the nation did nothing of the kind. Actually there was extremely little national interest in the poll-tax fight—not nearly as much as there should have been. For the issue involved very greatly transcends in importance the merits of the measure.

THE REAL question raised by the bill now killed for this session, was whether the Federal Government shall abrogate the right, basic in our system, of each State to determine the qualifications of its own voters. If the Federal Government acquires that right, it would be, as Mr. Mark Sullivan pointed out, not only a fundamental distortion of the American governmental system but it would set in motion a process which ultimately would mean the extinction of the States as units of government. It would do more than that—it would so enhance the Federal power over the individual citizens that freedom in the full sense in which we have known it would no longer exist. Instead of citizens of a sovereign state we would all become wards of the Federal Government.

ORDINARILY, filibusters are not defended, but in the case of so vital a question as this, certainly, one can justify a filibuster at least long enough to give opportunity for the people to understand what really is at stake. It is true, of course, that the primary purpose of the poll tax in the eight Southern States where

Lone U. S. Aviator Frees 600 Prisoners

By ROBERT G. NIXON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Nov. 24 — The dramatic story of an unidentified United States Army aviator who captured a Moroccan town single-handed and played a leading role in liberation of 600 men, women and children prisoners of the Axis was uncovered by this correspondent today.

The Britons had been held for two months at an internment camp in the interior of Morocco at German insistence.

They had suffered the harrowing experience of being tormented by a U-boat while on their way to England. Rescued, they were brought to Morocco, but instead of being repatriated they were held in a concentration camp on the demand of Nazi agents who controlled the local military and civilian officials.

Safely On Way Home
Now safely on their way home, these people will have a story to tell when they arrive. For it was only the courage and presence of mind of a sharp-eyed American aviator that made their liberation possible.

The pilot was flying inland on reconnaissance duty well ahead of American columns when he suddenly saw and felt bursts of anti-aircraft fire around him.

He swept down to investigate closer and was amazed to see the British group run to the barbed-wire fences that surrounded their compound and wave with hands and handkerchiefs.

Their jubilation over the sight of a white star on a blue field on the wings of his plane was unmistakable and the pilot concluded immediately that beneath him were hundreds of unwilling prisoners of the Axis.

Stream Of Shells
Meanwhile, anti-aircraft shells poured at him in a steady stream from a gun post atop an ancient Moorish fort.

It didn't take him many minutes to make a decision. He pointed through the path of the bursting shells, all machine-guns blazing at his target.

A few bursts of fire did the trick. While he was circling for another run, we were grateful to see the anti-aircraft fire come to an end and a white flag go up the old fort's flagstaff.

The garrison and the entire town joined in the mass surrender. The pilot reported the incident back to headquarters and in a short time the American army was on hand to complete the liberation.

Council Starts Budget Plans

Members Consider Needs Of City For Operation During
Coming Year

With all members of city council in fine fettle, they have gone into session in preparation of making the 1943 appropriations for the operation of the city government. One of the questions they must answer is the city employees' petitions asking for a wage increase. Indications are an increase will be given.

With priorities covering almost every type of material and machine it is not known what new equipment may be bought. However, studious attention will be given before appropriations for any such material is made. The question of whether or not such can be obtained will be given first consideration.

During the fall months of this year the city launched into a paving and resurfacing campaign. Sherman street, required for industrial purposes is being given a new 40-foot wide paving. Several streets from which street cars were removed have been resurfaced. These jobs are certain to cost at least $25,000.

The city wants to enter the next year, in debt as little as possible, so that the city will not be required to borrow much money for the operation of the city until the new taxes pour in during April.

ability to use Italy, Sardinia and Sicily as stepping stones which provide them far shorter lines of communications than the Allies. By this route, the Germans and Italians have been able to pour in great air strength in both bombers and fighters.

Bomber Strength Heavy
Word reaching Allied headquarters said that the enemy bomber strength is particularly heavy. It was noted, however, that enemy strafing attacks against Allied ground columns moving on Tunisia and raids on the Algerian landing points of Bone and Bougie have diminished appreciably since the arrival of American and Royal Air Force fighter reinforcements. The Allied planes are taking a heavy toll of Axis Stuka dive-bombers and fighter craft.

As far as is known, Allied ground forces far outstrip the Axis on the vital North African battle area, but the Axis air superiority must be overcome before an all-out ground offensive is started.

Ground clashes between advanced reconnaissance patrols of both sides still continue in Tunisia, but official reports state that the fighting is only of a minor nature. A Morocco radio report that the British First Army, supported by Americans and French, had opened a large-scale offensive to take the naval base of Bizerte and Tunis, the capital, was denied by a headquarters spokesman. He said that 40 German prisoners were taken "in one of the relatively minor engagements" on the central perimeter sector in the interior of Tunisia.

Reports to headquarters said that an Italian patrol, supported by German Stuka dive-bombers, was badly battered in a clash with French colonial forces on the northern coastal area. Many of the Stukas were shot out of the air by Allied fighter planes and anti-aircraft guns.

Rumor Rommel's Forces Arriving
Rumors that units of German General Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's armored forces driven out of Egypt were crossing into Tunisia from Tripoli received no confirmation, but it was known that some Italian troops had crossed the Tunisian border.

What was described as French communique No. 1 by the Morocco radio said that French forces had beaten back enemy units which infiltrated into their lines in the vicinity of Sbeitla, on a railway in central Tunisia. Ten Axis tanks were destroyed and numerous prisoners were taken, it was said.

Rotarians Hear Fingerprint Talk

Pvt. Moran, Motor Police Expert, Tells How It Developed

Fifty million fingerprints of American citizens now are in the Federal Bureau of Investigation files in Washington—yet it takes only three minutes for a complete reading of any print inquiry. Pvt. Bernard J. Moran, chief of the bureau of criminal identification of Troop D, Pennsylvania Motor Police, at Butler, told New Castle Rotarians at The Castleton yesterday.

All prints are classified—either in the criminal file or civilian file, he said. Current fingerprinting of war workers has increased the number on record.

Pvt. Moran, introduced by Rotarian Claudius W. Delaney, gave St. Louis police credit for the first fingerprint bureau in the nation. He traced the arts development from ancient Egypt until the present.

Tank War Veteran Praised By General

(International News Service)

FORT KNOX, Ky.—An armored force lieutenant who fought German tanks in the African desert where the British are now advancing, made such good use of the knowledge gained there that he was praised by Maj. Gen. William H. Grimes, commanding general of the 8th Armored Division, for his performance in recent combat firing tests.

He is First Lieut. C. P. Miller of Richmond, Va., who in the test commanded a platoon of five tanks of the 80th Armored Regiment, 8th Armored Division.

The general congratulated the platoon leader for the unerring and raking fire his tankers poured from the 75-mm. and 37-mm. cannon and for the personal initiative and forcefulness displayed by individuals in carrying out their problem.

POETRY GROUP PLANS DINNER AT CASTLETON

For the Poetry Group dinner, which is to be held at the Castleton, Tuesday evening, December 1, at 6:15, reservations are being taken by Miss Beulah Ruthrauff, of 510 Norwood avenue.

On this occasion, which will be an open meeting of the Poetry Group, Mrs. Alvah M. Shumaker will review Edmund Rostand's romantic drama, "Cyrano de Bergerac." Those interested in poetry, literature, and drama are looking forward with anticipation to the opportunity to hear this review.

Reservations for the dinner may be made until November 29.

'You Get Mad, Not Scared At First Taste Of Battle'

(International News Service)
ATHENS, Ga., Nov. 24.—What's the average American fighter's reaction to the first taste of battle? "You don't really get scared; you just get mad."

That was the way Marine Sergeant Eugene T. Card sums it up, and he ought to know, for he spent five weeks in a hospital recovering from wounds received in the thick of the Battle of Midway.

Sergeant Card was a machine gunner in a flying Marine squadron that dive-bombed a Jap carrier at that battle and afterwards, he said, the "navy doctors took three or four hours just picking pieces of Jap scrap iron out of me."

You Want To Fight

When a bullet or a piece of shrapnel hits you, it's funny but you don't feel like quitting or running away," he explained. "You don't even feel any pain—you're too tense. All you feel is terrible, uncontrollable anger and you just want to hit back with everything but the kitchen sink."

But Sergeant Card has another job ahead of him for the immediate future. He has been transferred to the Navy's Pre-Fight School at the University of Georgia and he is intent on earning his wings so he can return to the fray, this time as a Marine pilot.

"That's not just propaganda you read about our boys being anxious to tangle with the Japs," he declared. "That's how they really feel—everyone I've ever met. Nobody stops to wonder if he will come out of it okay. All he wants is a crack at them. Funny, I guess, but that's how it really is."

He Tells Of Midway

Sergeant Card was attached to a squadron that took off from Midway early in the morning of June 4. Recounting the thrilling events of the next few hours, he related:

"We were all keyed up and rarin' to go. About 10 miles out we spotted the Jap fleet through a break in the clouds. Ours must have been the first squadron to attack them because the whole fleet was steaming along in regular formation. Then as we got another look through they spotted us and immediately headed their carriers around into the wind."

Their Zeros were into the air in no time flat, trying to beat us off before we made our attack. The fleet was zigzagging all over the place and their anti-aircraft fire was so intense that their deck guns looked like one continuous sheet of flame.

"The shells burst around you way up there with little white puffs of smoke. They are pretty to watch until you stop to consider how much iron is packed into them."

Too Busy To Think

"It was some of that stuff that got me, but I was too darn busy at first to realize there was anything wrong. When I realized what caused that numbness in my knee and ankle and neck all I wanted to do was murder them."

"Before we peeled off to make our dive a burst came through the hatch, grazed my pilot's head and hit the compass right in front of him. He was spitting alcohol and glass for the rest of the trip. When we did peel off one of my guns jammed and I was working so hard to get it free I never realized where we were until I felt the bomb being released. Then suddenly we were leveling off just clear of the water with the guns of that carrier up above us pumping away like fury. I think we made a hit, though she still had lots of fight left in her when we headed home."

Card's pilot was Capt. Richard Fleming of St. Paul, Minn., and on the next flight out Capt. Fleming was forced to bail out and it is not known whether he was rescued. Sergeant Card is from Oakland, Calif.

Led Task Force

According to the Navy Department, a task force led by Rear Admiral William Augustus Lee, Jr., sank one battleship or heavy cruiser, three large cruisers, and a destroyer in the Solomons. Details of the battle are lacking at present, but it is believed that these Jap ships add to the impressive total already announced. This is an official U. S. Navy photo.

Lehman To Resign Governorship Soon

Newly Appointed Director Of Foreign Relief To Begin New Duties At Once

(International News Service)
ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 24.—Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, newly appointed director of foreign relief and rehabilitation, will plunge into his new duties without waiting to leave state office.

The governor will go to Washington tomorrow for preliminary conferences on the huge task which lies before him. He will have Thanksgiving dinner at his New York City home and return to Albany Thursday night.

While the exact date of his resignation has not been fixed, the governor expects to resign December 3, at which time Lieut. Gov. Charles Poletti will be sworn in as his successor.

He will be the first governor to resign since Charles Evans Hughes quit 30 years ago to go on the United States supreme court.

Artists League Postpones Exhibit

Hope To Have Exhibition By Local Artists Early Next Year

Because of remodeling operations which have been taking place at The Castleton, and the approach of the Christmas season, members of the Artists League of New Castle, have decided to postpone their proposed art exhibit until early next year.

It is expected to have the exhibition sometime during the Lenten season, it was announced today by Mrs. C. Russell Brenner.

WOMEN TAKE OVER

(International News Service)
LOWRY FIELD, Colo. — More than 100 women, ranging in age from 22 to 45, have replaced soldiers in the motor pool at Lowry Field, Colo., one of the technical schools of the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command, it was revealed at headquarters here today. The move was designed to relieve enlisted men from motor pool duties for more important work with their training squadrons. The women all passed special tests for licenses. They were employed in civilian capacities.

The Great Game Of Politics

it is in force is to discourage Negroes from voting and that the chief factor behind the present bill are the politically powerful Negro leaders who constitute the Washington Negro lobby.

PRIOR to 1933 the Negro vote was almost solidly Republican, and Democratic support for the anti-poll-tax fight was almost non-existent. In 1934 the New Deal, largely through the WPA and Federal patronage distribution, swung the bulk of this vote over to its side. In the recent election a fair proportion—notably in New York—swung back. There is now keen competition among the politicians for the administration support and the favoring attitude of many Senators, Democratic and Republican, from States where the Negro vote is considerable.

THUS, THE practical politics in which the proposal is enveloped obscured the deep constitutional question. Preoccupied with the vast drama of a global war, the people as a whole felt far from "frightened and enraged" were indifferent and uncomprehending, which is too bad. If they were more understanding, they would feel that this, above all others, is a matter with which the States should deal and Congress let alone. In this connection it is interesting that Tennessee—one of the eight—is about to repeal its poll tax, through its own State Legislature and of its own volition, which is the sound American way. The fact is that the move toward repeal of poll-tax legislation has been making real headway in the South, which the attempt to exert Federal force always checks.

MR. MURRAY, of course, injected himself into this fight because of the idea that far from being poll tax would enhance CIO political power. Perhaps it would, but if that reason did not exist he would still have issued a statement. Few controversial matters can escape a statement from Mr. Murray. He covers not only the fields of foreign policy, labor and politics, but of economics as well. While the tax bill was pending, statements followed statements, and the $25,000 limitation on salaries naturally evoked from him warm commendation. Since that order went into effect, however, there has been considerable diminution in the enthusiasm of its advocates. One reason is that it is now pretty clear that the scheme is a "phony"; that instead of gaining, the Treasury will lose revenue, and the main effects will be a small increase in unemployment and a decrease in bond buying.

ANOTHER is that the more its history is traced the less lovely it looks. Until recently, it was assumed that it had originated in a resolution of the 1940 CIO automobile workers convention, and that then Mrs. Roosevelt took it up and sold it to the President. Now, it seems, it goes much farther back than that.

STAMP BUY! BONDS On Sale In Lobby!

Now, it is revealed that it originally appeared in the 1928 national platform of the Communist party, which nominated William C. Foster for President and Benjamin Gitlow for Vice-President. That was one of the chief Communist party planks of that campaign. The Communist ticket of that year polled a total of only 23,361 votes. One scarcely could foresee that fourteen years later this Communist proposal, after twice being turned down by Congress, would be given the force of law by Executive order of a Democratic President elected in 1932. Nor is this the only plank of the 1928 Communist platform which has now become a part of the New Deal structure. The forty-hour five-day week is another. It is extremely instructive to see how many of the Administration policies are based upon that document.

Daily Dozen

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Resuscitation is bringing life back to one seemingly dead.

To do this, artificial respiration must be used.

Artificial respiration is what the name implies.

The patient is made to breathe artificially.

At least until nature reestablishes normal respiration.

A person may stop breathing for various reasons.

Electrocution, carbon monoxide gas, drowning, head injuries.

Swallowing certain drugs may cause a person to stop breathing.

Oxygen is necessary to maintain life in the body tissues.

The reserve of oxygen in the body will last only 10 minutes.

Artificial respiration should start as soon as possible.

And continue until spontaneous breathing is reestablished.

Hints On Etiquette

If one woman is present with two or more men, the men should not limit their conversation to business, politics, sports, or any subject in which the woman cannot join. The exception to such a hint is, of course, when the woman is just as interested in these subjects and knows as much about them as her male companions.

Albert Yod, aged 19 years, of R. P. D. No. 2, Pulaski, received a fractured skull and Nick Sveta, aged 19, of R. P. D. No. 2, West Middlesex, was also injured late last week when a motorcycle operated by Yod, collided with an automobile near Sharon. They are undergoing treatment in the Buhl hospital at Sharon.

What's What At A Glance

but he doesn't feel especially grateful to anyone for it, for the very reason of his score's skimpiness.

A lame duck's plight, on the other hand, immediately is noticeable to an administration which will possess plenty of appointive power to take care of him, if he's been faithful and serviceable previously, and he promptly is assured of a federal judgeship or some alternative government post, provided he stays useful during his remaining six or seven months as a senator or representative.

Nevertheless, the administration unmistakably has lost influence already, and it's a fair conclusion that it's right in its judgment that it'll have a lot less of it, beginning directly after New Year's Day.

As a kind of a seeming paradox, a good many New Dealers confidentially regard disparagingly to wartime Rooseveltian policies. These commentators' complaint is that the New Deal's Messiah, F. D. R., is so subordinating his original ideal to his notion of war-time necessities that never again will it get back into its own again.

More Executive Power
Essentially what F. D. R. wants is much more executive dictatorial authority, at congress' expense and maybe at the judiciary's expense, also.

Now, there are New Dealers who favor a New Dealerish dictatorship, but there are others among them who're genuine democrats (small d), opposed to dictatorship on general principles. So there is that split, to begin with.

A big bloc of Democrats (big D) is anti-New Dealerish upon any terms.

It goes almost without saying that Republican dictatorial sentiment (with F. D. R. as dictator) isn't strong enough to be significant.

The administration, then, has had this miscellany to "rattle" with ever since we got into the war.

It isn't exactly an opposition. It's an atmosphere.

Block Captain Is Sued For Divorce

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Mrs. Virginia B. Markey sought a divorce today on the charges that her husband, Peter, returning from his duties as block captain, frequently had acquired smudges of rouge on his collar along with a considerable degree of intoxication. She didn't think that should go with the job she said.

A price ceiling won't save us. The price is doubled if it remains the same and the quality it cut in half.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC — Lieut. James C. Whitaker, rescued with Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker after 22 days in a life raft on the Pacific is mildly annoyed at being given up as lost: "Why everybody knows that Eddie (Rickenbacker) always comes back."

CHICAGO — Brig. Gen. David W. Grant, surgeon of the Army Air Forces: "At the end of the war, we wish to return members of the Army Air Forces to their peacetime endeavors better both physically and emotionally."

WASHINGTON — Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas objects to nationwide gasoline rationing: "It is my solemn judgment that if the drastic gasoline rationing proposal is carried into effect, farm production is going to be much less, just when the needs will be much greater."

ATLANTA — President Carlos Alberto Arroyo Del Rio of Ecuador, enroute to confer with President Roosevelt: "I noticed in the United States a tremendous development of agriculture and a great amount of military activity—the two things which will do much toward winning the war."

Thanksgiving Observance

The greatest thing about Thanksgiving Day is its fundamental reason for being observed. On that day, each of us should demand the best, cleanest thinking and reflections we are capable of.

Among the many things for which we are thankful, is the great wealth of confidence placed in us by people of this community. The cumulative worth of this good will of yours is appreciated, and we are truly thankful for everything which is tending towards making this a better earth on which to live.

SEVENTH WARD Anniversary Is Observed

Relatives and friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Dungan, of 419 Newell avenue, on Saturday evening, and helped celebrate their fifty-fourth wedding anniversary. There were eighteen children and grandchildren present.

Their children are, Mrs. H. O. Dickson, Edenburg; Mrs. Ralph Snowden, of East Clayton street; Mrs. Herman Alexander, West Cherry street; Charles, 205 North Lafayette; Harvey and Herbert, at home.

Lunch was served by Mrs. Snowden and Mrs. Dickson.

Friends called and extended their best wishes.

The couple received many nice gifts, also flowers, and greeting cards.

DR. J. ORR WILL BE ACTING PASTOR

Dr. John Orr, professor of Bible at Westminster college, has been selected by the congregation of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church to be acting pastor for several months in the absence of Rev. John E. Myers, Jr., who is now a chaplain in the U. S. Army service. Dr. Orr has occupied the pulpit several Sundays since Rev. Myers leaving, in September.

OBSERVES BIRTHDAY
Charles E. Dungan of Newell avenue has entered the octogenarian phase of his life. He observed his seventy-ninth birthday anniversary on Sunday. Mr. Dungan states he

Jan Valtin To Be Interned

By EDWIN DABBY
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The department of justice announced today that Jan Valtin, author of the best selling novel "Out of the Night," whose life has been one of "violence, intrigue and treachery" while he served as agents for both the German Gestapo and the Russian OGPU, will be interned for the duration of the war as a dangerous enemy alien.

Valtin, whose real name is Richard Julius Krebs, has been arrested by officers of the immigration and naturalization service at his Bethel Conn. home. Under the action today, the board of immigration appeals ordered his deportation to his native Germany, saying that Valtin admitted being regarded by the Russian government as "one of the most important spies of the Nazi Gestapo" during the last five years.

Attorney General Francis Biddle then authorized Valtin's arrest and he was picked up.

While Valtin claimed that he had reformed, the board held that his life has been one of "violence, intrigue and treachery" and that there was no reason to assume that "his present reliability and good character have been established" now.

FACE INJURED
Louis Domeneck, of 233 South Cedar street was treated at the Mahoningtown hospital at 4:10 p.m. today for lacerations of the upper and lower lips received when he was hurled against the windshield of an auto. He was able to leave the hospital after treatment.

INJURED AT WORK
Parks Nickum of 1006 North Ashland avenue, was treated at the Mahoningtown hospital late Monday morning for a laceration of the hand, received while at his work at the Associated Box corporation plant on North Cedar street.

K. J. U'S TO MEET
This evening, Mrs. C. C. Comstock of 226 Fairmont avenue, will be hostess to the K. J. U. Class, of the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church, at her home. Mrs. Harold Swisher, is co-hostess.

NO MEETING WEDNESDAY
On account of Thanksgiving holidays this week, the meeting of the Red Cross Sewing Circle, scheduled for Wednesday afternoon, at the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church, will be dispensed with.

AIR WARDENS TO MEET
This evening air raid wardens class will meet for instruction at the post, corner North Cedar and East Cherry streets. There will be no air raid class Thursday morning, on account of Thanksgiving.

BACK ON DUTY
Ben Clark, letter-carrier at Mahoningtown post office, has returned to duty, after a week's illness with grip.

NO SCOUT MEETING
Members of Boy Scout Troop V-4 will not meet this week on account there will be a meeting of the Court of Honor, Acting scribe, Eugene Gribble.

Down 14 Out Of 14 Jap Dive Bombers

Air Attack On U. S. Shipping
Repulsed By Marine, Navy
Pilots Near Guadalcanal

(The following front line dispatch from Guadalcanal, combat correspondent Sgt. Edward J. Burman tells how marine and navy pilots shot down 14 out of 14 Jap dive bombers attacking American shipping.)

By SGT. EDWARD J. BURMAN
U. S. M. C. Combat Correspondent
(Distributed By International News Service)
GUADALCANAL, Oct. 17.—(Delayed)—U. S. Marine Corps and navy pilots had a field day today, sending 14 out of 14 Jap dive bombers flaming into watery oblivion and putting two Zero planes out of action.

The Nipponese airmen started the show, attacking our ships between Guadalcanal and Tulagi. But our fighters finished it—with a bang. Closing marines roared approval as enemy planes were smashed out of the morning sky in rapid succession. Our vantage point presented a view far superior to 50-yard line seats at the Rose Bowl game.

Great plumes of spray rose high in the air as Nip bombs missed their mark and hit the sea. As U. S. Grumman fighters tore into the enemy formation, the Japs jettisoned their bombs in a frantic effort to get away.

One after another, the enemy planes burst into flames and fell like great stricken birds. One burst into fragments; another, dropped sideways like a dead thing; a third dove straight down, trailing smoke, while still another fell like a live torch.

O.P.M. Policies Are Criticized

Senators Charge Policies Are Ruinous To Small Business And Com- munities

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Two Republican senators today joined in criticizing policies of the office of price administration which they charged are ruinous to the continued existence of small business and of small communities in the country.

Sen. Robert A. Taft (R) Ohio, said the inflexible price control policies of the OPA are forcing many small businesses to close their doors. He referred specifically to small meat packers and manufacturers of dairy products.

Sen. Raymond Willis (R) Ind., saw in the granting of war contracts to big industrial concerns, and the withholding of critical materials from small manufacturers a threat to the existence of small communities which, in many instances, are dependent on a small manufacturing plant for its livelihood.

Harms Small Business
"Arbitrary fixing of price ceilings is harmful to the small businessman because he cannot absorb the losses, or exist on the small margin of profit like the big industry," Taft said.

"Naturally the small business man cannot absorb his losses, or operate on as small a margin of profit as can big business. People who have complained to me say the only remedy they can get to their complaints at the OPA is that OPA doesn't give a damn about small business while trying to win the war."

While offering no specific remedy for the situation, Taft said it cannot be helped by legislation.
Congress can grant these powers, but the difficulty lies in the administration. It seems to me there could be some leeway for the small packer, for instance, who renders a definite service to the butcher in the smaller cities in the providing of special cuts or in quicker service. The packer can't continue this kind of service if he has to pay more for his beef on the hoof and then has a ceiling placed on his produce. Some provision should be made in such instances.

Willis said that while it is necessary to give priorities on critical materials to the manufacturers of war necessities, sufficient materials should be allotted to the small town manufacturer to permit him to continue his business, even though he makes a small profit or merely keeps his business going.

"We may soon face a period when some of the manufacturers of war necessities, such as soldiers' uniforms, will have completed their government contracts," Willis said. "I think we should begin to think about what will become of these businesses, and at the same time plan a program which will save these small plants in rural communities."

Two Navy Fliers Killed In Crash

(International News Service)
ABSECON, N. J., Nov. 24.—A mid-air collision of two small navy planes near Atlantic City, resulted in the death of two navy fliers and the injury of another, the fourth naval district announced today.

The victims were Leo D. Frane, 26, of (3626 Warwick street), Kansas City, Mo., pilot of one of the planes, and his passenger, Lieut. Frederick Randolph Grace, 33, of Milton, Mass. Both were members of the naval reserve.

The injured man, pilot and only occupant of the second plane is Ensign Chester Legg, believed to be from Cherry Point, N. C., sustained a broken leg upon landing after a parachute jump from his wrecked plane.

Eyewitnesses said three planes were flying in echelon formation at the time of the crash, which occurred late yesterday.

Starts Serving Life Sentence

(International News Service)
SALEM, N. J., Nov. 24.—Ira Norris, 30, father of four children, today began serving a sentence of life imprisonment at hard labor for the first degree murder of his business rival, Samuel H. Hagenberger, last September.

Norris, a salesman, was convicted by a jury of strangling Hagenberger and tying his body to a tree with a belt following an argument over sales territory. Both were residents of the Salem area.

ARMY READS GOOD BOOKS

(International News Service)
FT. WARREN, Wyo., Nov. 24.—Pert Miss Eloise Ebert, post librarian for the U. S. Army quarter-master troops, stationed at Ft. Warren, doesn't even raise an eyebrow when soldiers come in with requests for Spengler's "Decline of the West," or a treatise on Sanskrit grammar.

"Of course fiction reading leads all other kinds," said Miss Ebert, but it must be good fiction. Demands vary from books like "The Last Time I Saw Paris" to Tolstoy's "War and Peace."

The non-fiction books that are popular are in the main books dealing with philosophy and the war, such as "Victory Through Air Power" and "Men on Bataan." A great many technical books are borrowed, as many of the men stationed at Ft. Warren, are specialists going to various schools in the QMRTIC, Miss Ebert stated.

"I don't know about the last war, but if anyone thinks that the present-day soldier isn't interested in reading—and I mean good reading, he should visit our 7,000 volume library," Miss Ebert said. "I think too, that the average army man is just as well informed as the average civilian and has about the same taste in books—but of course doesn't get as much opportunity to read as civilians do."

Christmas Lights To Shine In Illinois

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Ill.—The war will not blackout Christmas in Illinois! Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, executive director of the Illinois Council of Defense, said today that decorative street lighting will be permissible this Yuletide, in cities of the state.

"Decorative street lighting is not of itself considered objectionable where no dimout restrictions exist," Gen. Parker said, "provided in every case such lighting is installed so it can be extinguished quickly."

However, he added, no new equipment or wiring involving critical materials should be purchased.

Butler Hunter Fatally Shot

BUTLER, Pa., Nov. 24.—The first hunting fatality of the year resulted in the death of Elmer J. Collins, Jr., 19, of 541 West Brady street, who was shot in the middle of the back, and died before he could be given medical attention.

According to Corner J. Charles Dangler, Richard Dumbough of 304 North Chestnut street, was reloading his gun and had just closed the weapon when it was discharged, striking Collins in the back. A call was made for an ambulance but Collins was dead when aid arrived.

Shakespeare's grave was dug 17 feet below the pavement of the canal of the little church at Stratford, England.

Some Voluntary Enlistments Are Now Under Ban

Essential Employees In Aircraft And Shipbuilding Barred From Enlistment

By PHILLIPS J. PECK
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The army and navy banned voluntary enlistments by "essential employees" in the aircraft and shipbuilding industries to end a manpower loss that threatened to cripple war production.

Enlistments also were halted by essential employees within the industries who have resigned within 60 days prior to their application for enlistment.

Selective service officials said, however, that the action is not a blanket deferment of workers in the two industries, who will continue to be drafted for military service as they are needed and can be replaced in essential jobs.

The step viewed as a compromise between demands of civilian war planners for a complete cessation of all enlistments and protests of the armed services that the more than a century old tradition of voluntary enlistments be allowed to stand.

Both Paul V. McNutt, war manpower commission chairman, and War Production Board Chief Donald M. Nelson recommended stoppage of all enlistments, with the latter declaring that they had hurt war production more than anything else recently.

Schulers Return From Hawaii, Tell Of Seeing Pearl Harbor Attack

Having left New Castle on July 6, 1932 as an enlistee for Hawaiian service with the U. S. Army, and returning to New Castle, Pa., with his wife, on Saturday, with his wife, the former Helen Stevens, and their two small children, Fred, Jr., and Regina Helen, Fred Schuler tells of seeing the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

On Sunday morning, December 7, at 7:30, Schuler states that noise of guns and bombs were heard, but that they paid no attention, due to gunnery practice and maneuvers being common occurrence in the Islands; but it did occur odd that the residents weren't warned, by the newspapers to enable all to remove pictures, mirrors from the walls, to avoid breakage. At the first sound, Schuler turned to his wife and said "Funny they are having gunnery practice today of all days, Sunday," and turned over and went back to sleep. A phone call from their niece was the first actual word, and within a few moments, both he and his wife joined the thousands of people on the beach looking across the six mile distance, observing enemy planes diving down, and dropping their bombs. Screens of smoke, explosions, and the flying of shrapnel was a sight that was awful, but actually happening, "Pearl Harbor-bombed."

From that day on, everyone had orders to be on the "alert." No one was permitted on the streets after 10 o'clock at night unless a defense worker, with a vouchered pass. Complete black-outs every night are observed, and are strictly enforced with heavy fines.

Upon placing their names on the steamship list for embarking for America they were called and told room was obtainable on a convoy "Sometimes you get two days notice; maybe one day and the minimum of four hours, to be ready to leave," he states. Each passenger is given a list of rules that MUST be observed, on board ship.

They left for the shores of San Francisco on a Dutch boat, and were eight days crossing. "The crew was a short crew—Every able bodied man had to scrub decks, cook, wash dishes, man the life boats and guns," Schuler states.

After visiting in California

they left a week ago and arrived here Saturday, going to the home of his sister, Mrs. Merle Francis of 625 John street. For the present, the Schulers will be with another sister, Mrs. W. F. Thellman on McClelland avenue, until he is placed and they get a home of their own.

Schuler, son of former policeman Fred Schuler of this city, worked on the Honolulu Advertiser and the San Francisco Examiner as a printer. He had been employed as a defense worker, since the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

In telling of the changes noticed in New Castle, he remarked that coming over Atlantic avenue, the first sight that caught his eye, were the new mills and factories. Then the heart of town, and the removal of street car tracks, and the running of buses in place of the "rolley cars." The buildings look much the same, but the stores have gone "streamlined." It's still home to me.

Schuler relates that when they left Hawaii, there wasn't any rationing of sugar, and that pineapple was plentiful. However, gasoline rationed, car owners being permitted ten gallons per month. When the tires give out, you walk.

The Schulers will remain here but in due time, after the war, expect to return to Honolulu—the "Paradise of the Pacific."

First Christmas Seals Bought By Mrs. A. V. Grieve

First In Lawrence County To Buy Seals For Annual Tuberculosis Campaign

Recorded as the first in Lawrence County to buy Christmas Seals for the 1942 annual campaign, is Mrs. A. V. Grieve of 21 Smithfield street. The seal sale is held annually by the Lawrence County Tuberculosis Society, for the purpose of promoting health programs, for X-ray and tuberculosis tests.

The Seal Sale was officially launched on Monday, with residents throughout the area of Lawrence county receiving seals through the mail. It is hoped the response will be as good this year as in the past, in the fight against "tuberculosis."

Persons not receiving any, can secure them at the local headquarters, Room 219, in the Lawrence Savings and Trust Building, or at the Post Office news stand in the lobby.

Mrs. Helen Vonderaar is executive secretary and Andrew Dodds is Christmas Seal chairman in charge of this year's campaign.

Victory Fund Group Plans Bond Drive

December Campaign's Goal For This District Is $360,000,000 In War Bonds Sold

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 24.—Under the leadership of Clarence Stanley, district chairman of the Victory Fund Committee, chairmen of the 23 county groups from western Pennsylvania and northern West Virginia met at Pittsburgh today to launch their local campaigns to sell $360,000,000 in government securities during December.

Mr. Stanley made it known that fifty business leaders of Allegheny county will be "drafted" to head up the drive here and to put the entire facilities of their organizations behind the push to sell the county's share of $270,000,000. Chairmen of other counties were urged to take similar action in order to bring every available influence to bear in raising the unprecedented sum of nine billion dollars for the entire country. Mr. Stanley added: "We are not asking anyone if he wants to serve. We are telling them that they have to get busy and put this job across."

Learns Parents Alive In Warsaw

Mrs. Joseph Mirow Receives Answer To Inquiry Made Last January

Answer to an inquiry made through the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, concerning the safety of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Gutkowski, in Warsaw, Poland, was received this week by Mrs. Joseph Mirow, of 321 Winter avenue. The answer, a brief message, stated that Mr. and Mrs. Gutkowski were alive and well, but were confined in the Ghetto, at Warsaw.

Mr. and Mrs. Mirow were enjoyed to receive this brief message, even though it required almost a year of anxious waiting on their part.

QUAKER, 41, GETS TWO YEARS IN JAIL (International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—Russell Warren Ihrig, 41-year-old Quaker, was sentenced Monday to two years in prison for failing to obey the order of Draft Board 7, in Media, to report to a "conscientious objectors' work camp, last September.

Knitters Asked To Complete Garments

Red Cross Desires To Have Materials Finished To Supply Demand For Garments

Mrs. Robert M. Garland, chairman of knitting, Lawrence county chapter, American Red Cross, is bringing her 1942 records to a close and is very anxious to have all volunteer knitters, who have unfinished garments, finish them immediately or return them unfinished to the knitting rooms in the Wallace block.

The demand for warm garments is increasing each day and it is very necessary for the chapter to complete its quota up to date and keep moving the yarn as it comes in. If all volunteers will check on their outstanding yarn and immediately finish their garments, this will be of great help to the knitting department.

Due to the tire and gasoline situation it will be impossible for the chapter to make the deliveries they have in the past, but if a volunteer cannot come into the knitting rooms to get yarn if they will call the chapter, the material will be mailed to her. In this way work can be kept moving.

Halsey Honors 52 Guadalcanal Heroes

Naval Crosses, Silver Stars Awarded On Shipboard In South Pacific

By RICHARD TREGASKIS (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, Nov. 24.—Admiral William F. Halsey, standing on the strangel-scattered quarterdeck of an American cruiser "somewhere in the South Pacific," today awarded 52 naval crosses and 23 silver stars to living and dead heroes, honoring the ship's participation in the victorious Guadalcanal battle of November 12 and 13.

Heading the list of those receiving awards were Lieut. Commanders Herbert E. Schonland of Portland, Me., and Bruce McCandless of Long Beach, Calif. Admiral Halsey said they were recommended for the high honor for bringing the cruiser safely through the battle when all the higher officers were wiped out. Under their command the cruiser damaged a Japanese battleship, which later sank, set fire to an enemy cruiser and sank a Jap destroyer.

Editor's Note—Last week the navy cited the heroic work of Lieut. Commander McCandless in bringing the battle-scarred cruiser San Francisco safely to port after his two superior officers, Rear Admiral Daniel J. Callaghan and Capt. Cassin Young were killed on the bridge. McCandless was knocked unconscious by the hit on the bridge but upon reviving assumed command. The majority of 17 posthumous navy cross awards honored the crew of an "ack-ack" gun which continued to fire, although a flaming torpedo plane was diving directly at them.

TIME CLOCK BLUES

(International News Service) NORTH VANCOUVER, B. C.—It doesn't pay to monkey with the time clock in British Columbia war production plants. Two workers recently found guilty of punching each other "in and out of the job" despite the absence of one of them, were sentenced to a year in jail each.

New Tax Boost Now Forecast

Senate Committee Chairman Foresees Huge Increase In Tax Coming

By WILLIAM S. NEAL (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Sen. Walter F. George (D) Ga., chairman of the Senate finance committee, today forecast an administration request for an increase of $15,000,000 to $16,000,000,000 in the federal tax bill.

The recent heavy boost in income tax bill, but the economic experts reporting to economic stabilization director, James F. Byrnes, are said to believe that the increase must be much larger.

"They probably will want 15 to 16 billions more," said George. "My position is that if they want new taxes they must go to a sales tax. This would be in addition to compulsory loans, which would be returned after the war."

If compulsory loans are voted, George said, there must be some lowering of present income taxes with sales taxes substituted. The American taxpayer, he said, can't stand both compulsory loans and additional taxes.

POST-WAR LOSSES

(International News Service) CORVALLIS, Ore.—German leadership will bear the marks of the present war whether the Reich wins or loses the conflict, in the opinion of Dr. Clifford Maser, associate professor of business administration at Oregon State College.

Huge losses being suffered by German armies are depriving the nation of men who soon would become leaders of government, thought and politics, Dr. Maser forecast. He said the number of Germans reaching military age at present is far below normal because of a low birth rate resulting from casualties in the last war.

Bus Driver Is Held In Crash

(International News Service) PROSPECT PARK, Pa., Nov. 24. John Roberts, 34, driver of a Washington-bound Greyhound bus, was held on $1,500 bail on a charge of involuntary manslaughter today in connection with the death of Charles W. Scheffeld, 36, of Ridley Park.

The bus crashed head-on into Scheffeld's car last midnight on Chester Pike in Prospect Park. Roberts told police that an automobile containing four men swung directly in front of his bus, forcing him to swerve into the path of Scheffeld's car.

Roberts and a number of his passengers extricated Scheffeld, but he died a short time later of a fractured skull in Taylor hospital, Ridley Park. At the time of the crash the victim was driving to work at a Philadelphia oil refinery. He is survived by his widow, Marion, and three children.

PERFECT CADETS
(International News Service) CHAPEL HILL, N. C.—Lieut. William Neufeld, in charge of testing and measurements at the U. S. Navy Pre-Flight school here, finds that overweight cadets lose as much as 22 pounds and the underweight boys gain up to 16 pounds during the first three months of intensive physical activity here.

Cadets weigh from 120 pounds to 200 pounds and the average weight is 156 1/2 pounds. In height the future flyers range from five feet, four inches to six feet, four inches.

HEALTH CODE
(International News Service) JOHNSTOWN, Pa.—The health education committee of the Johnstown Y. W. C. A., concerned for the health of girls and women during wartime, has adopted the following code:

"Check your health with your physician and adapt your program to your capacity; balance your work with play, your rest with exercise; strengthen your body and build for flexibility and endurance; refresh yourself with a hobby; choose your food wisely, and learn to relax."

Junior W.P.I.A.L. Trophy Awarded To Ellwood High Team

Presentation Made At Annual Meeting Held Last Night
In Pittsburgh

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 24.—At the annual meeting of the junior high school W. P. I. A. L. official board last night in Pittsburgh the junior W. P. I. A. L. trophy was awarded to the Ellwood junior team.

This was the first time that an Ellwood junior team ever won the trophy and it is a distinct honor to the players and their coaches. Harold L. Barry and Charles Wallace. Competition for the trophy was close with the award being made on the point basis. Ellwood led with 107½ points and Greensburg was a very close second with 106½ points. Officials weren't in favor of a play-off between the two schools.

The event was held in the gold room of the Fort Pitt hotel and was attended by 125 representatives of the 40 schools that participated in the title race. Barry and Wallace represented the local school with the former accepting the trophy. It is a handsome sun-gold bronze statue on a wooden base, and will be inscribed with the name of the local team.

SPECIAL COMMITTEE WILL MEET TONIGHT

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 24.—A special committee of the Chamber of Commerce will meet at 7 o'clock tonight at the chamber rooms to work out plans for the first anniversary of the December attack on Pearl Harbor. Any plans formed will be along the lines of remembrance of those who gave their lives during the treacherous sneak attack.

Car Crashes Into Clark Residence

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 24.—Mrs. Joseph R. Clark is confined to her home at North Sewickley, suffering from shock and injuries received on Sunday morning when a car driven by Howard Angell, Jr., crashed into her home.

Mrs. Clark was telephoning near a window when the car came through the wall, overturning the piano, and the bumper hurled Mrs. Clark across the floor. One side of the house was badly demolished. The driver said he fell asleep while descending the grade above the Clark home with the car falling to make the bend at the Country club, careening across the lawn of the Factor home and crashing into the Clark house. Mr. Angell received severe face bruises, and the car was much damaged.

District Boys To Be Inducted

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 24.—Ellwood and district boys residing under the jurisdiction of Beaver county Draft Board One, with offices at Baden, who passed the final examination for Army induction in Pittsburgh on Monday were:

Charles F. Kriegisch, Paul H. Kimmel, Jr., John Soteklanich, Stephen W. Bender, Anthony Mazzanti, Raymond P. Winters, George F. Hazen, John Tyahur, Jr., Frank D. Bolasz, Vito P. Taylor, George Konyak, Benjamin L. Estkowski, Loyal A. Hall, Paul H. Kriegisch, Frank A. Capello, Paul P. Rossi, Chauncey J. Forbush, Joseph L. Colao, Francis H. O'Donnell.

They will leave for induction in one week.

Glenn T. Koach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Koach, Wurttemberg, was listed among the U. S. Army Air Force enlistees in Pittsburgh on Monday.

WURTEMBERG FIREMEN

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 24.—Wurttemberg and Perry township firemen met at the Wurttemberg school last night for a business meeting.

During the evening, turkeys were awarded to Jack Reddick, Slippery Rock; Charles Talley, Wampun, and Miss Alice Covert, Wurttemberg teacher. Another meeting is planned for Tuesday, December 8.

REBEKAH LODGE VICTORY PARTY

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 24.—Rebekah Lodge members met last night at the bank hall for a victory party with president, Mrs. Bernice Minett, in charge.

After an informal evening, a tempting lunch was served at one V-shaped table patriotically decorated by Mrs. Merna Badger and committee.

A Christmas party will be held on Monday, December 14, with Mrs. Rachael Blatchford and committee in charge of arrangements.

Harper-Tritt Marriage News

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 24.—Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Dorothy Harper, of Monaca, to Kenneth Tritt, of this city. The ceremony was performed on Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock by Rev. Robert Barr at his home, in Smiley street.

For her marriage, the bride was attired in a becoming winter white and wine ensemble with which she wore a pretty corsage of rosebuds and baby mums.

Mrs. Joseph Kravak, sister of the bridegroom, served as matron of honor and was attired in an attractive robin egg blue dress with her flowers matching those of the bride.

Walter Tritt was chosen as best man.

A wedding dinner for the bridal party and friends followed at the bride's home at Monaca.

For the present, they are residing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Tritt, of Ellport. The bridegroom, a graduate of the local high school and National Tube Company employee, has enlisted in the U. S. Army and will leave on Wednesday, December 2, for induction. The bride attended the Monaca high school.

ELECTA MEMBERS

MEET ON MONDAY

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 24.—Electa club associates were pleasantly honored last evening at the home of Mrs. Howard Steinbeck, Spring avenue.

After several hours of cards, the nice prizes went to Mrs. Earl Duncan and Mrs. Shed Koach. The hostess was aided by Leatrice Miesel in serving a tempting lunch.

Another meeting will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Clyde Christie, Pittsburgh Circle.

Military Service Corps Plans For Next Departure

Committees Appointed, Other
Arrangements Made For
Draftees And Enlistees

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 24.—The Ellwood City Military Service Corps met last night in the American Legion rooms to complete plans for the purchase of the kits to be given to the draftees and those who enlist in the armed forces. Every effort will be put forth to have the kits ready for the draftees who leave on December 3. President Sid. Bertsler appointed the following by-laws committee: R. J. Schill, chairman, Tom Roy, Ralph Little, Mrs. F. E. Moore, Mrs. Cecil Kocher and Fred Meizer. A special plaque with all the names of the organizations in the local Military Service Corps was approved and a committee appointed to handle this consists of Mrs. McDevitt, chairman, Tom Roy and Thomas Newman.

Mrs. Eugene Lebowitz, chairman, Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. Wollman and Captain Carl Anderson, were appointed as a special committee to make up the kits that will be presented to the boys as they leave for their induction centers. Thomas Newman was appointed chairman of a special committee which consists of Fred Meizer, Mrs. McDevitt, Dan Evans, Thomas Roy, Mrs. Woodfield, Mrs. Hamill, Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Wiley. The group decided to have the Ministerial Association have a representative at each time the draftees leave to give a three minute talk. President Sidney Bertsler also appointed the following organizations to have two or more representatives at the American Legion rooms at 6:30 a. m. on December 3—Ladies' Loyal Orange Lodge No. 163, Eastern Star and Salvation Army. December 4, Wurttemberg W.C.T.U., Ellwood City Fire Department, Auxiliary and the Salvation Army, December 5, Ladies Auxiliary, Franklin Township Fire Department, G.A.R. Ladies and Salvation Army.

U. P. Society Dinner Meeting

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 24.—The Fellowship society of the First United Presbyterian church enjoyed a tureen dinner last evening at the church with a large attendance of members.

President, Miss Virginia Fraser, was in charge with the program featuring a chalk talk by W. F. Kegel. The evening was devoted to making Thanksgiving favors for the local hospital meal trays.

During the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Barrett, retiring counselors, were presented with an attractive gift in appreciation of their services. Miss Martha Brandon will be one of the new counselors.

Mrs. Clifford Kock Is Given Farewell

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 24.—Mrs. Clifford Kock was pleasantly honored at a surprise, farewell party last evening at the home of Mrs. Charles Miller, Ellwood-Zellenople road.

Mrs. Kock will leave in a short time to join her husband who is employed at Lockport, N. Y. Twenty neighbors and friends participated in the informal evening of games and singing arranged by the hostess and Mrs. Jacob Daufen.

After Mrs. Kock was presented with an array of lovely handkerchiefs and towels, the hostesses were aided by Mrs. Elmer Best in serving a dainty lunch.

C. A. MARTIN CLASS

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 24.—Following the serving of the banquet, C. A. Martin class associates gathered last night at the Presbyterian church with Mrs. Clifford Kennedy in charge. Plans were made to have a Christmas party during the latter part of December.

Took Over Command

During the recent large-scale naval battle in the Solomons, Lieut. Comm. Bruce McCandless, 31, was wounded and knocked unconscious. When he came to, his senior officers on the San Francisco had been killed. In spite of his injuries, he took over command of the U. S. cruiser and piloted her safely into port. This is an official U. S. Navy photo.

Girl Scout Rally Is Fine Success

Eighty-Seven Become Full-
Fledged Scouts At Court
Of Awards Last Night

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 24.—Relatives, friends and Girl Scouts formed a colorful picture when they gathered in the basement of the First Baptist church for the intermediate court of awards last night. Eighty-seven girls who had completed their preliminary work received their Tenderfoot pins and became full fledged Girl Scouts.

Mrs. John Pearson, chairman of Badges and Awards, had charge of the meeting which was opened with music by the Girl Scout orchestra under the leadership of Mrs. John Hough.

Mrs. Edward Bohlen, leader of Troop 3, conducted the investiture service. As the girls names were called they formed a large horseshoe. The pledge to the flag was then given and a poem, "The Flag Goes By," was read by Mary Jane Hulet. Each leader then presented the girls of her troop with their pins. Mrs. Bohlen gave a short talk on the scout laws and their meaning in the every day lives of the girls after which a candle light service ending with the Scout Promise concluded the investiture service.

Fifteen girls received second class badges, one girl received a pottery badge and three girls received each a Readers and a Wild Plant Finders badge.

The girls of troop 8 furnished the entertainment which was in the form of a play both written and presented by the Hiawatha Patrol. The name of the play was "On Second Thought," and showed that the girls had put some very good thought into it. Our Gang patrol presented a pantomime entitled "A School" and the Inky Dinky patrol gave a pantomime entitled "A Love Scene in Central Park."

Two of the leaders were pleasantly surprised when Mrs. Hough presented them with Five Year pins in recognition of their work in scouting. Mrs. Gerson has eight years to her credit as a leader and Mrs. Bohlen has seven.

The following girls received defense stamps for their work in selling the Ellwood History books: Beverly Nagle, Norma Britton, Betty Bookamer, Mary Ann Schindler, Patty Morrison, Jenny Lou Bates, Margaret McCarren and Mary Ellen Vogt.

It was announced that the stocking drive will continue this week and the troops which have not done their collecting will do so some time this week. It is hoped that there will not be an old silk stocking left in the town when the scouts finish.

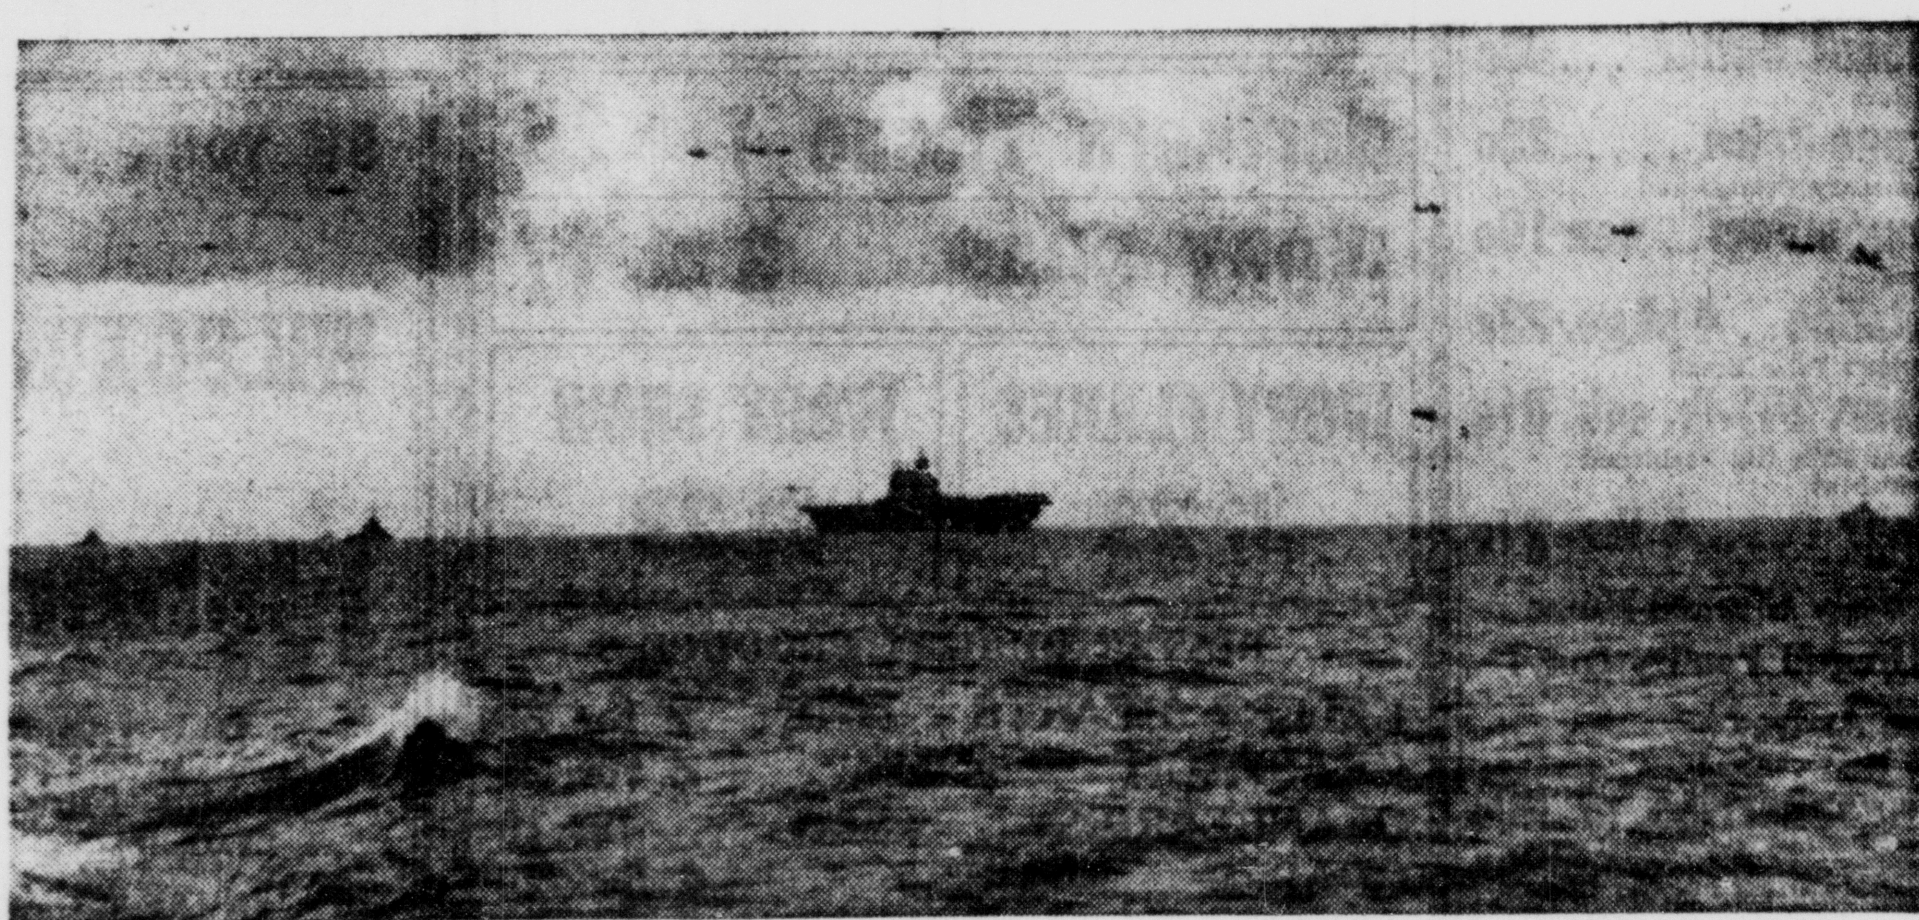

FIVE MORE ON WAR FUND HONOR ROLL

U. S. War Birds Come Home to Roost in the Pacific

Circling high above a U. S. aircraft carrier in the Pacific, thirteen fighting and bombing planes prepare to land on the vessel's long deck after chasing Japs at Santa Cruz in the South Pacific. Each plane must await its signal before coming in. Carefully trained crews move the planes about in split-second time the moment they hit the deck to clear it for other landings. This is an official U. S. Navy photo.

LOOK over the list of worthy institutions below. Surely you will find at least one that meets your approval. At least one that merits a small contribution from you. But, just in case you can't . . . think of this. In some lousy Jap prison camp there's an American boy. He came from a city very much like New Castle. He had his pals . . . his teammates . . . the kids he played hooky with. He was one of the boys who caused the trouble on Halloween.

Well, Mister, that same boy is eating fish heads and rice on Thanksgiving.

Think that over while you are eating Turkey.

It's all well and good to say we are Americans.

To claim that we are patriotic . . . generous.

How about proving it?

Kick in now for the UNITED WAR FUND.

Part of the $90,000 to be collected will go for prisoners aid.

GIRLS POLICE DETROIT PLANT

Hudson Motors Selects Athletes
To Free Men For
Other Duties

(International News Service)
DETROIT—Detroit, which first was called upon to convert its vast motor company plants to war production, today was revealed to have taken the lead in another field—the use of women to relieve men for important tasks.

Even while the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps and its Navy counterpart, the WAVES, are training the ladies for just such tasks in regard to servicemen, a group of girls has already realized this objective.

Eighteen young women, attired in snappy, semi-military uniforms, guard war production at the Hudson Motor Car plant.

The new guards—only one of whom is less than five feet, ten inches tall—were selected from the Tip Topper's club, an organization of tall girls. Although empowered to arrest violators of federal regulations, they are unarmed, and their chief duty at present is to escort persons entering the plant on business.

However, W. H. Graham, chief of the plant protection force, said they are being trained by Army officers to use firearms and will receive weapons later.

"For the time being, the girls will serve as escorts," Graham said. "In this duty they relieve men guards leaving the latter available for more dangerous assignments."

Several of the girls have been outstanding in either college or high school athletics.

Philadelphian Joins Army The Hard Way

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA—Harry Green finally made the U. S. Army—but he had to go half way round the world to do it.

Harry, 25, who was refused enlistment in the American forces because of his teeth, joined the Royal Canadian Essex Highlanders in May, 1941. Sent to England, he applied for and received a transfer into the U. S. Army.

U. S. FIRE LOSS LIKE WAR TOLL

Fatalities Are Near Total Of Bombing Deaths

(International News Service)
AUSTIN, Tex.—Fire losses in America are almost as great as fatalities from bombings in England during three years of war, according to state fire marshal Marvin Hall.

During the first three years ending August 31, 1942, British figures on war casualties showed German air raiders killed 45,871 persons, Hall said.

"Here in America, our loss in the same three years was approximately 30,000 civilians burned to death. In a land free from the roar of enemy planes; where screaming bombs are unknown, our carelessness with fire caused a death toll two-thirds as great as the wartime deaths in England."

Last week, he pointed out, two deaths from fires resulted in Texas—one where a man fell asleep while smoking in bed, the other from the "dangerous practice" of keeping gasoline in the home; a gasoline can nearby a water heater was ignited and a shower of flames covered a child standing near it.

"If as many of our people in Texas were killed by bombs as there are by fire, we would be doing something to stop it. Yet a life lost by fire is just as horrible a tragedy."

There is no authentic record of the origin of the office of poet laureate of England. The first known king's poet served in the reign of Henry II, 1216-1272.

Mickey Mouse's Kin Surprises The Army

(International News Service)
CAMP FUSTON, Kan.—The rapid expansion of the armored force apparently is influencing some of Mickey Mouse's relatives.

Some time ago a mouse established residence in a drawer of a desk belonging to Lt. Col. Alton W. Howard of the 9th Armored Division. In that drawer was the Table of Organization, charts showing the set-up of the fast-growing armored force. Each morning the mouse would disappear, taking with it a portion of the document.

The other day Col. Howard opened his desk, jumped back in surprise, and announced to his staff:

"Regarding the enemy, five new units have just been activated. We must assume that the remainder of the parent organization is headquartered in a nearby office."

'No Hats At All' For British Women

(International News Service)
LONDON — "No hats at all" is what the well-dressed British woman will be wearing this winter season. A new government supply restriction today announces that only 30 per cent of last year's hat quota will be available for sale.

The ruling also affects trimmings and remodelings of all women's clothes. Tailors are endeavoring to popularize a "knitted hat" style since wool is one of the few materials not yet restricted.

Women for years have been insured by The Equitable in large numbers. They are often heads of families and their needs for life insurance protection are the same as those for men. In particular, the professional or business woman upon whom others are dependent in whole or in part recognizes the need of life insurance.

Morling Bombed Before He Joined U. S. Army—Father
Killed Abroad

(International News Service)
NEW CUMBERLAND, Pa.—Although he has not left the United States since his army enlistment last September, Private Thomas W. Morling has been bombed by the Luftwaffe.

It occurred while Morling, the American-born son of British parents, was serving in the Norwegian navy, in which he had enlisted in an effort to establish contact with other members of his family who were in England.

Morling was born in Rochester, N. Y. In 1915, however, his father returned to England to enlist in the British army. Young Morling, his mother, brother and sister followed in 1918 but he later returned to the United States to retain his citizenship.

Newspaper accounts concerning the Nazi bombing of London made Morling anxious over the safety of his family and he made several futile attempts to reach England. Finally, he enlisted in the Norwegian navy as an electrician, was assigned to a patrol boat and eventually reached the British Isles.

There he learned that his father had been killed by a delayed time bomb, and his mother severely injured. His brother, Morling found, was in the British army while his sister was a lieutenant in the WAAF.

While on patrol duty off the English coast, Morling's boat was attacked and hit by a Nazi bomber, RAF fighter planes, however, riddled the bomber and sent it into the ocean. The damaged patrol boat came to America for repairs and Morling left the sea to enlist in the U. S. Army at Philadelphia.

Casualties In North Africa Total 1,910

Army Losses Heavier Than Navy; Mostly In Capture Of Oran And Casablanca

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 24. — The war department announced Monday that the American casualties, both army and navy, in the landing operations in North Africa totaled 1,910.

U. S. Army casualties were estimated at 1,600, including 350 killed. American navy casualties totaled 310, of which ten were reported killed.

Text of the war department's 247th communiqué follows:

"The war department released the following estimated report of United States army and navy casualties resulting from the initial landing in the North African operations."

"Gen. Eisenhower reports that it has not been possible as yet to secure a careful confirmation of this list:

"United States Army—Killed 350.
"Wounded, 900.
"Missing 350.
"United States Navy—Killed 10.
"Wounded 150.
"Missing 150.

"It is probable that most of those reported as missing were drowned. The next of kin will be notified by telegram as soon as casualty lists are received, after which the lists will be released for local publication.

"The major army losses were suffered in the capture of Oran and Casablanca. Only few losses occurred in the operations around Algiers.

"Gen. Eisenhower, in his last report, states that the French in their co-operation with our movement into Tunisia suffered heavy casualties on November 19."

Greater Care Of Pastures Is Urged

Feeding Value Of Most Pastures
Could Be Doubled,
War Board Chairman States

The feeding value of most pastures in this state could easily be doubled by proper attention to their improvement, and farmers could increase dairy and meat production without buying more concentrates which require additional labor and transportation, accord to James E. Walker, chairman of the Pennsylvania War Board of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Costs of feed in meat and dairy production have risen under wartime conditions, but the margin of difference between the cost of nutrients in improved pastures compared with those in hay and concentrates is greater than ever before, he added.

Department of Agriculture authorities advise that superphosphate may be applied at any time, he pointed out. Early spring or late winter applications will be well washed into the soil by the spring rains. Fall or early winter is a convenient season for liming pasture, and gives time for the lime to work into the soil before spring, but spring applications are satisfactory.

Defiant Alien Would Return To Germany, Gets Two Years in Jail Instead

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24. — A defiant 24-year-old German alien who said he would go back to Germany if he could get safe passage and who declared he never "enjoyed any freedom or equality" in America was sentenced Monday to two years in prison for failing to obey his draft board's order of induction into the army.

"I don't think I'd make good material for the United States army," he declared in court "because I am still a German citizen."

Goldenrod Yields Rubber, Tests Show

(International News Service)
NEW ORLEANS, La.—Hay fever sufferers, who for years have dreaded the fall season and yellow, waving goldenrod, soon may see their "most detested" plant go to war.

Experiments at the Southern Regional Research Laboratories reveal that a specially developed type of the plant may be the source of an almost unlimited supply of rubber. Plant experts at the laboratory have developed a giant, seven-foot big brother to the familiar "field variety." They declare it has a very high rubber content and can be harvested in huge amounts each year.

'Canes-Quips Tilt Highlights Season

Turkey Day Crown Clash Starts At 2; Ambridge Is Battlefront

LOCALS CONCLUDE DRILLS WEDNESDAY

Fascinating King Football reaches its peak in Western Pennsylvania on Thanksgiving Day with New Castle and Allegheny high battling for the Class AA WPIAL trophy.

The contest, which is expected to lure a capacity crowd to Ambridge high stadium, will start at 2.

The localities, boasting of eight triumphs, one defeat and a tie, are staging their next to last workout this afternoon. To safeguard against serious injuries, Coach Bridenbaugh probably will order a light session today. Tomorrow's concluding rehearsal will be restricted to limbering up exercises.

Lee "H" Man
Heading the local pack on the valley grid will be talented Bob "General" Lee, the team's left halfback. The colored whiz, who has gained more than a mile in rushing so far and who has planted his cleats into enemy scoring turf 17 times, will be the "H" man.

The senior athlete will do most of the passing, running, punting, play the safety post and call plays in the huddle. Injured during most of the last half of the back breaking schedule, Lee is in fair shape. While Russ Currie will be in the lineup, the speedy right halfback will be unable to operate in high. Currie, one of the fastest ball jugglers in local history, has been troubled by a left knee and ankle injury. He was forced to pass up most of the drills last week.

Jesse Gunn, the high-powered fullback, is primed for his last scholastic performance. Pete Tedesco, the reliable blocking back, is set for the most important battle of the season.

Two Linemen Ailing
Due to injuries there may be at least two changes in the line. Coach Bridenbaugh said today, Tony Razzano is still pained by a foot ailment and has been taking things easy. Tom Sanfilippo, the big tackle, is on the sidelines due to a "charley horse" on the right leg. Deenan and Clark will be in the starting lineup in the event that Razzano and Sanfilippo ride the bench.

With the exception of some new stuff that will be used in a pinch, the local offensive thrusts will be comprised of power plays, occasional end runs, a few reverses and a sprinkling of passes.

Defensively, the locals will employ a 6-2-2-1 to stop the Quips' double wing offensive spurt. The "Canes" by the way, ran into the double wing against Farrell, Mt. Lebanon and Washington.

Joe Hartman, ex-Grove City and Franklin High coach, has watched the valley eleven in action and reports that New Castle will meet its strongest foe of the season.

Line Bigger
"The line is bigger than New Castle's and packs unusual charge."

Governali Best, Lou Little Says

Columbia Star Completes 87 Out 165 Passes; Punts Average 39.97 Yards

HALFBACK ENLISTS IN U. S. MARINES

By JACK MAHON (International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—A modest man and a modest boy, from a modest football team, have wound up their 1942 gridiron careers and today that day can remember one of the finest tributes ever paid a college football player by a great coach.

The man is Lou Little, coach of Columbia; the boy, Paul Governali and at the regular weekly meeting of the N. Y. Football Writers Association yesterday Little summed up the young fellow's glorious senior year in this fashion:

"I've thought all year that Paul Governali was the best all-around college football player in the country. I am now convinced of it. There may be a better one, for I haven't seen them all, of course. But I do not think so. This boy has everything and I want everyone to know I think so."

Governali, halfback of a strictly mediocre buff and blue squad this year, was praised by Little, the oldest coach in point of service in the East for his great passing record; his phenomenal kicking; his brilliant defensive play and the marvelous spirit with which he cooperated with the team.

Equals One Record
Paul made 56 punts during the year averaging 39.97 yards per boot. He also threw 165 forward passes, completing 87 for a percentage of 52.5. Of these only 18 were intercepted and 19 of them were good for touchdowns, equaling the record established by Dave O'Brien of Texas Christian. He gained 1,442 yards, missing by only one 15-yard pass the record for total ground gained through the air by the same Mr. O'Brien. Little didn't realize this or he wouldn't have yanked his ace in the final two minutes of Saturday's tilt with Dartmouth.

Young Governali got on his feet and revealed that he had been deeply touched by the association with Coach Little and the fine teammates with whom he has played at Columbia. "I want to repeat one thing I have said many times, but never personally to the sports writers," he continued, "and that is, despite what Lou or anyone else says, I owe everything I have learned to Mr. Little."

Governali said he was considering a pro career but wanted to discuss it with Lou before making any decision. He couldn't do anything about it until after the war anyway for he has enlisted in the marines and expects to be called into training next March when he is through school.

Urge Hunters To Withhold Calls

At Present Rate, All Pastboards Will Be Sold Out By Tomorrow Night

By BILL ZIMMERMAN (International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Postmaster General Walker could move into the Washington Redskins' office today and feel right at home.

Since it was announced that tickets for the championship playoff on December 13 between the Redskins and the Chicago Bears would be sold by mail order only, the postmen have beaten a well-trodden path to the Washington establishment.

It's a fact. Since tickets went on sale yesterday the place has been even busier than George Marshall's surrounding laundry. And you can take it from us, George is turning out many a shirt these days.

There were 35,751 seats for the big game, but at the rate applications have been pouring in, you won't be able to buy a single ticket by tomorrow night.

The national pro league ruled that tickets must be sold by mail to prevent the confusion like that in 1940 when thousands flocked to the Washington office to buy tickets for the Skins-Bears tilt game. But in this case, the ounce of prevention didn't come near a pound of cure.

Despite the ruling, extra help was required for the switchboard to handle phone calls running up into the thousands, while a steady stream of customers jammed the place attempting to buy tickets for cash.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Serambing a few bits on the run:

New Castle seeks its fifth western Pennsylvania scholastic football crown come Thanksgiving Day. In the Syracuse Cup days, the locals edged Charleroi, 10-6, in 1924, and thus bagged their first trophy.

In 1926, Ralph Gardner's point system was accepted by the WPIAL. Two divisions, A and B, were instituted. In 1932, Class AA was added and New Castle shared the title with McKeesport and Jeannette.

Bridenbaugh's elevens ruled the roost in 1933 and 1934. After a lapse of eight seasons, New Castle is back in the championship photo, striving to set a record by copping five schoolboy emines.

A pair of local athletes, Dave Ferguson, son of Rev. D. L. Ferguson, 411 Sheridan avenue, and Don Jerry, son of Frank Jerry, 537 Harbor street, will receive football awards at Muskingum college.

Ferguson, a guard, received a lettered sweater last season and will be awarded a gold football medalion for outstanding performance this season. Jerry, although a sophomore, has earned a lettered sweater for sensational play at guard.

Beazley Selected As Rookie Of Year By Chicago Scribes

St. Louis Card Ace Pitcher Gets 192 Points; To Receive Plaque

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Nov. 24.—Johnny Beazley, who pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to two world series victories after compiling a 21 to 6 win and lose record last season, was the "rookie of the year" selection today of the Chicago chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

Johnny will be awarded the J. Louis Comiskey memorial plaque during the baseball writers' fifth annual dinner in Chicago next Tuesday evening. He hopes to be here to receive the award personally if he can get leave from his military duties. He now is in training in the army air corps near his Nashville, Tenn., home.

The balloting was spread among 22 players considered in the "rookie" classification. Beazley led the field with 192 points, Johnny Pesky, the Boston Red Sox shortstop, trailing well behind as runner-up with 136 points.

Penn State End Coach Advocates Concentration On Local Rivalry

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—Freezing of college football schedules for duration and concentration on local rivalry were advocated today by Erle L. Edwards, Penn State end coach.

Edwards suggested at the Maxwell club gathering that transportation difficulties would be obviated by inter-state or intra-city games. He expressed doubt that the scheduled Penn State-Georgia game next fall would obtain government sanction.

County Coaches Meet Wednesday

Members of the Lawrence County Coaches Association will meet in the Y. M. C. A. on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, Johnny Eagle announced today.

Grid Nuggets

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 24.—Jerry McCarthy, sophomore quarterback and Senior Fullback Bob Brundage today were named by Coach George Munger to start Penn's annual tilt with Cornell Thanksgiving day. McCarthy replaces Veteran Dick Martin, while Brundage will substitute for Bert Stiff. Both regulars are injured.

VILLANOVA, Pa.—Al Postus, star Villanova halfback was on the sidelines today with a leg injury which may keep him out of the crucial game with Temple Saturday. Subby Siani and Zeb Czarkowski are being groomed as understudies.

PHILADELPHIA.—Temple University's chances of beating Villanova Saturday were jolted today by the revelation that Fullback George Sutch is out for the season with a broken ankle.

WEST POINT—Army was in good shape today for the Navy clash on Saturday. The team came out of the Princeton game without serious injuries. The Cadets will be given three more stiff workouts this week.

ANNAPOLIS.—The Middies scrimmaged against Army plays today as Navy prepared for the traditional Army encounter. All Navy players were reported in good shape.

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—The return of Tackle Lou Rymkus, who had been benched by elbow injury, bolstered Notre-Dame hopes today as the Irish took their final workout before leaving for Los Angeles to meet Southern California Saturday.

COLUMBUS, O.—Elated over their success against Michigan, the Ohio Buckeyes, now the Western Conference champs, went through a polishing up workout today for their last encounter of the season against the Iowa Seahawks. Paul Sarringhaus, star of the Wolverine game, suffered a broken nose but was expected to be ready Saturday.

Lightweight Tourney Plans Are Underway

Beau Jack's Win Over Stolz Muddles Ratings; Meeting Slated

(International News Service)

PATERSON, N. J., Nov. 24.—Seeking to forestall a disputed championship in the lightweight division, Abe J. Greene, president of the National Boxing Association, revealed today that he plans to convene with the New York Boxing Commission on the advisability of holding an elimination tournament.

In the last ratings issued by the NBA, before Sammy Angott's retirement as title-holder, Alvie Stolz and Tippy Larkin were classified as the "logical contenders." Beau Jack's win over Stolz, Greene said, would, under the circumstances, move Jack up into this classification.

"However," he said, "in the interest of producing a champion who would be accepted without question, a logical subject for discussion at a conference with General Phelan, John J. Phelan, chairman of the New York Boxing Commission, and his associates would be the advisability of permitting the leading runners-up to fight it out for the right to box the winner of a Jack-Larkin match."

Local Shooters Second In Penn-Ohio Loop; Match On Wednesday

Announcement was made today that the New Castle Rifle club meets McDonald, O., in a Penn-Ohio league match booked for the Cathedral range Wednesday night.

The locals are parked in second place with six wins against two losses. Columbiana is setting the pace with seven triumphs and a lone setback.

EVANSTON, Ill.—Memories of another wartime back in 1918 when Great Lakes and Northwestern played to a 0 to 0 tie on a rainy field were revived today as the Wildcats prepared for their Thanksgiving Day encounter with the Bluejackets in Dwyer stadium. In Thursday's battle the Wildcats' line will be outweighed 20 pounds per man from end to end and probably will rely again on the passing arm of Otto Graham.

Deer Hunting Season Opens On November 30

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 24.—

Pennsylvania's red-coated, red-hatted hunters—and hosts of others from adjoining states—will take to the deer trails November 30 for a try at the fleet-footed whitetails with the expectation that the season will be an exceptionally good one, says the State Department of Commerce.

Customarily, the season opens December 1, but this year the State Game Commission decreed the season should open the last day in November—which happens to come on a Monday.

Coming on Monday, the hunters will be able over the weekend to get to their favorite hunting grounds and camps and be "all set" for the initial hunting of deer on Monday morning. The weekend provides hunters with an opportunity of not only getting back to their camps or other places where they will have accommodations but gives them an opportunity for the friendly comradeship of the camps for several days before the season opens.

Most of the camps already are in good shape for the influx of hunters.

Wood has been cut and stacked, provisions arranged for—and even in many sections of the deer country hunters already have been out in the hills "looking the ground over" for any signs of the whitetails and planning where they expect to make their "drive" or take their "stand" on the opening day.

Last season approximately 19,000 legal male deer were brought down by hunters in the Pennsylvania hills. This season, as last, only male deer with two or more points to each antler are legal in the State.

The State Department of Commerce again this year compiled a booklet on "Hunting Accommodations in Pennsylvania." It not only contains a list of a large number of hotels, inns, cabins, mountain homes and farm homes where accommodations may be had but also complete game laws and a list of the game protectors and their addresses. The demand for the booklet, which is of 44 pages, has been very great. The Department reports it is being sent to all those who request it.

Deer are annually killed in all but a few of the 67 counties of the State, but the best of the hunting will be found in the more mountainous sections.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Balmy weather and absence of any tracking snow made poor hunting conditions, according to Director Seth Gordon of the state game commission in reporting that a survey in eight northern tier counties showed only half a dozen bears killed during the four days which was one of the worst in the history of the state.

Clark Griffith of Washington is preparing to go to the major league meeting in Chicago next month hopeful that baseball will be continued next year. He admits that priorities on strategic materials used in baseball plus the drain on manpower and transportation difficulties have imposed tougher problems than those of the last war, but he thinks baseball has a fighting chance.

Another wartime back in 1918 when Great Lakes and Northwestern played to a 0 to 0 tie on a rainy field were revived today as the Wildcats prepared for their Thanksgiving Day encounter with the Bluejackets in Dwyer stadium. In Thursday's battle the Wildcats' line will be outweighed 20 pounds per man from end to end and probably will rely again on the passing arm of Otto Graham.

Collegians Help Harvest On Farms Near Westminster

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Nov. 24.—In their campaign to help Lawrence and Mercer county farmers harvest crops, Westminster college students and faculty have contributed a total of 1,525 man-hours of labor during the months of October and November a survey reveals.

With one of the largest apple-crops in recent years on hand Westminster students picked 5,880 bushels in district apple-orchards. Co-eds and collegians together are credited with having packed a total of over 3,000 bushels. Other jobs, such as corn cutting, threshing, silo filling, and digging potatoes, have also been handled by Westminster volunteer farm hands.

President Has Used Coffee Idea

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Monday revealed that the president, setting himself up as "an expert on coffee," has recommended a new recipe for re-brewing used coffee grounds, differing from "used coffee a la laquadrone."

Asked at her press conference what she thought of Mayor La Guardia's recipe for stewing coffee grounds twice, the first lady replied:

"The president thinks he's an expert on coffee and he believes that the old wet coffee grounds are first dried, and then a few grains of fresh coffee are added, you can get a much more palatable, drinkable beverage."

Mrs. Roosevelt said that coffee would be served at the White House dinner feting the president of Ecuador, but she did not say whether it would be made from the old fashioned or the new Roosevelt recipe.

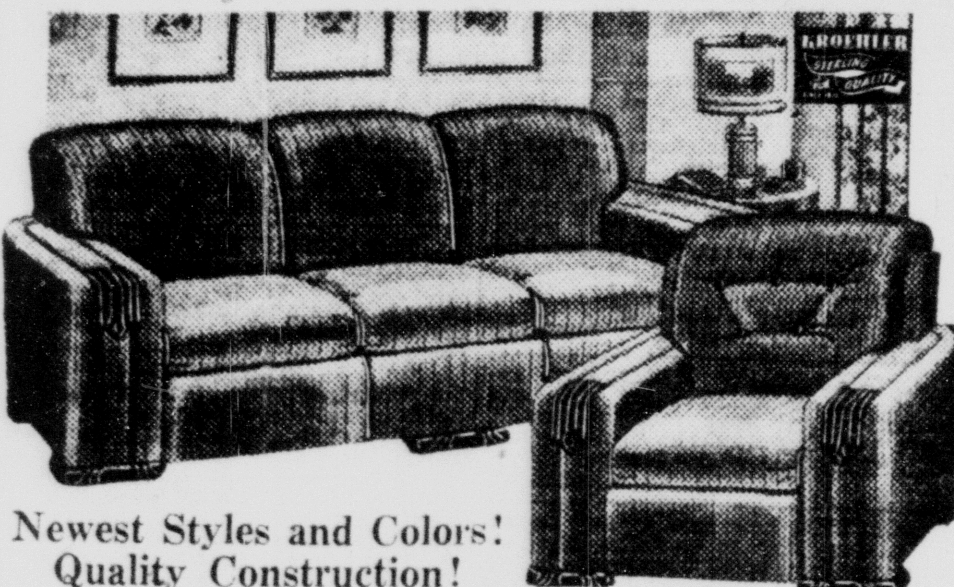

No Tire Chains On Pittsburgh Taxis

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 24.—Citizens in Pittsburgh's suburbs and hill districts were faced with an added inconvenience of no taxi service this winter when it was announced that the cabs will not use tire chains during icy weather.

The taxi company said chains were difficult to obtain and that it did not have sufficient chains to supply all cabs. It was emphasized that chains were "hard on tires" anyway and that tires are irreplaceable.

Health Talks

By DR. W. A. WOMER
City Health Superintendent

TEETH

If you have good teeth you have something you have a complete set before you are born. They are all set ready to go. All they need to do is push up a little ways.

If you had the right ancestors and your mother had a good diet your first teeth would be O. K. Baby's teeth should be cared for just the same as an adult's. If cavities occur, they should be attended to. Just because they are temporary does not mean that they should be neglected.

The first big tooth to come in the back is the first molar. It is not a baby tooth. It is permanent. It is the king pin. Take care of it. Look into your child's mouth often and see if the first molars are in good shape.

If there is any sign of trouble pack the youngster off to the dentist and stand in the line until he can see about it.

Keep the teeth clean if you can. We do not know what causes teeth to decay. Keeping them clean does not prevent decay but it helps to prevent bad breath. Bad breath does not come from the stomach. It comes from the mouth. It is called halitosis but smells worse than that.

Tobacco smoke and beer and cavities and dirty teeth do not help your breath much.

The more dentists there are in a town, the more intelligence and culture will be there too.

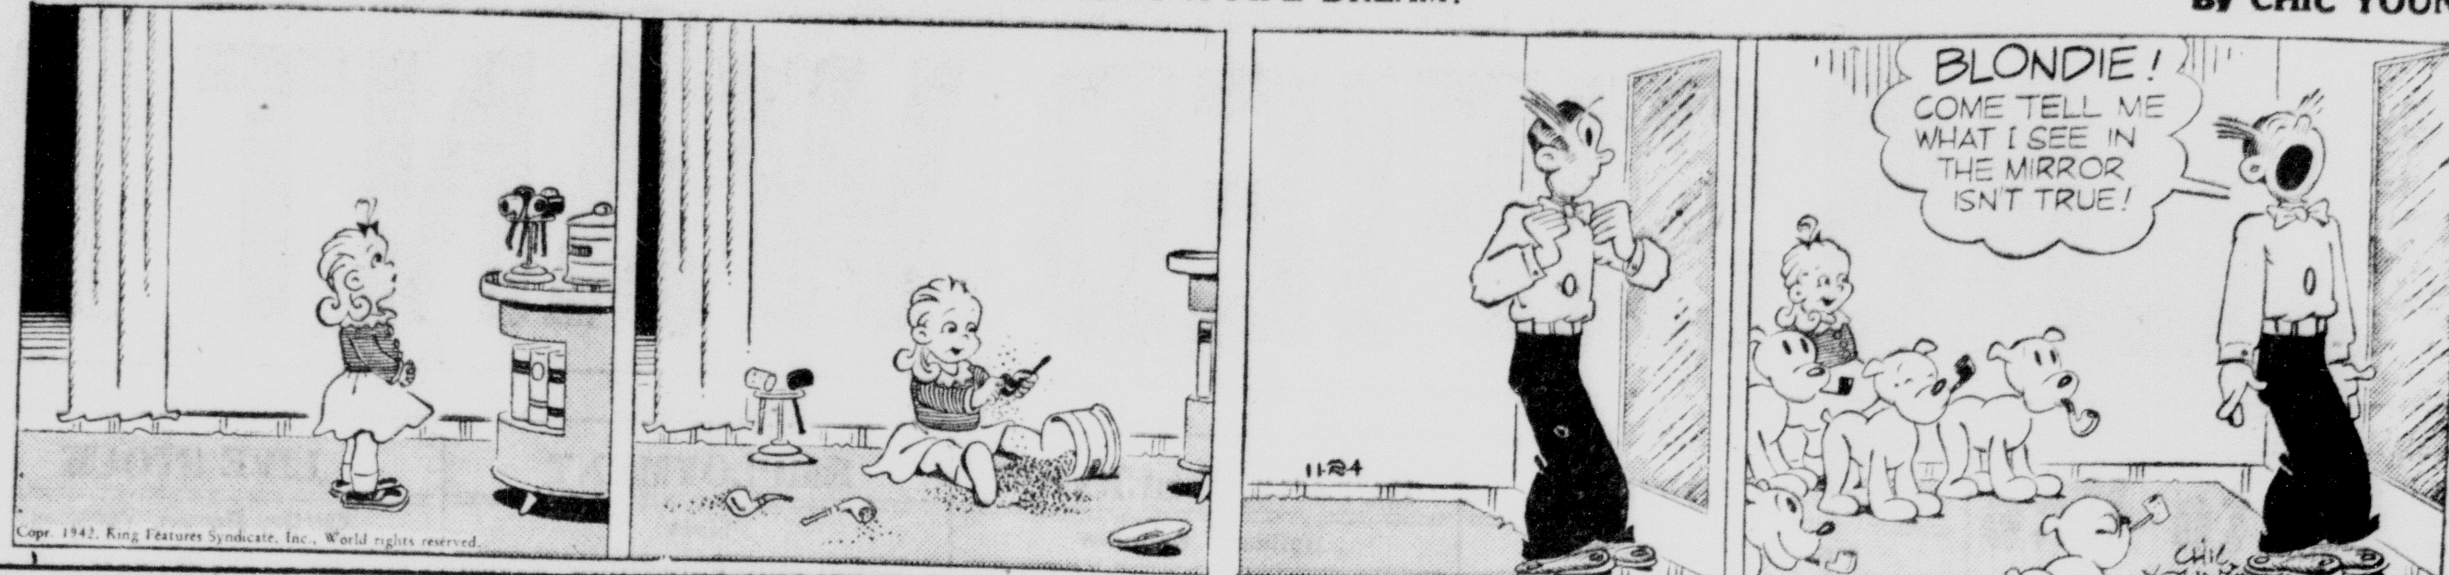

KILLED IN AUTO CRASH

(International News Service)
ERIE, Pa., Nov. 24.—William H. Colton, 30, father of four children, was killed 10 miles from here when he fell asleep behind the wheel of his car, Deputy Coroner Frank St. George reported today. No inquest will be held. Colton's car crashed into a mail box and a tree.

Market Continues To Give Ground; Few Issues Lose As Much As Point

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The stock market continued to give ground today, with a few issues losing as much as a point. Trading was slow.

A handful of stocks displayed independent strength. American Airlines and U. S. Smelting each were up about a point at their best levels. Allied Stores advanced 1/2 to a new 1942 high of 6 1/2, and Continental Can moved up a fraction.

Weakest shares included Bethlehem, Allied Chemical, J. I. Case, American Can and Lima Locomotive, each down a point or more before meeting support.

Newport News Shipbuilding slipped 3/4 to a new low for the year of 16 1/2, while N. Y. Shipbuilding lost about a point.

Also depressed were U. S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Telephone, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania R. R., Texas Co., Consolidated Edison, Montgomery Ward, Boeing, Woolworth and American Tobacco "B."

SOCIAL REGISTER PASSES UP GLAMOR AND BEAUTY

Names of a group of beauties whose bank balances and social ratings made them outstanding glamor girls are absent from the pages of the just published 1943 New York Social Register. Missing are the names of Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt Di Cicco, Mrs. Esme O'Brien Sarnoff and Mrs. Barbara Hutton Grant, wife of Film Star Cary Grant. Absent also is the name of Diana Barrymore, actress daughter of the late John Barrymore. The name of Mrs. Di Cicco's mother, Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt, also does not appear in the new edition.

AWED PAPUANS MEET A YANKEE THUNDERBIRD

These natives of New Guinea are getting their first closeup glimpse of a huge American war plane, shortly after it landed on a newly-created air field. A few of the braver spirits are shown touching the huge stranger from the skies and seem surprised that nothing is happening to them.

'Bicycle Seat' Observers on U.S. Warship

Any enemy planes, subs or warships that come within the range of the field glasses being used by these alert observers aboard a U. S. warship, somewhere at sea, will be accorded a warm reception. The chairs used by these lookout men allow them a complete circle to scan the seas and skies. They are called "bicycle seats." This is an official U. S. Navy photo.

Wants Neutral Spain

Crown Prince Don Juan, above, pretender to the Spanish throne, has issued a statement from Geneva, Switzerland, urging Spain to remain neutral and to remain on friendly terms with the "Americans." He said Spain should fight to preserve her neutrality, if necessary. With German troops on the Franco-Spanish border this statement is regarded as distinctly favorable to the Allies.

Tracers Spell Doom of Jap

Heading with accuracy toward a dodging Jap plane (circled), tracer bullets find the way for the anti-aircraft shells that follow. The unusual photo was taken from a U. Vets Auxiliary To Have Eighth Essay Contest

Local Students Eligible To Compete In $2,000 National Contest

"UNITED WE WIN" IS SUBJECT GIVEN

New Castle high school students will have an opportunity to compete for $2,000 in cash prizes offered by the National Auxiliary of the V. F. W. in addition to prizes offered by the state, Tri-County Council, and local auxiliaries. It was announced today by Mrs. Ida M. Suber, chairman of the arrangements for the auxiliary of Harry L. McBride Post No. 522, V. F. W.

The subject which has been chosen for this year's essay contest is "United We Win." Every high school student is eligible to compete, and the rules of the contest have been given to Principal Clara B. Book of the Senior high school.

The essays must be in the possession of the local contest chairman by midnight, February 22. These which are adjudged winners in local contests must then be furnished to the state department by April 15, 1943, and the state winners must be sent on to the National Auxiliary by May 15.

The essays must be between 500 and 1,000 words in length. Students enrolled in any high school, public, private, or parochial, and maintaining their class work at the time of writing the essays are eligible to compete. No age limit is specified.

The essays must be typed, double-spaced, one original and two copies being furnished on plain paper, 8 1/2 by 11 inches. Papers must be fastened together with staples or brads—not clips.

Students desiring to enter the contest should consult their school officials, Chairman Suber states.

Errol Flynn Trial Set For January 11

(International News Service) LOS ANGELES, Nov. 24.—Speaking in a firm voice which carried through the court room, Screen Star Errol Flynn on Monday pleaded not guilty in superior court to charges he had attacked two teen age girls.

Trial was set by Judge Edward S. Brand for January 11 after Defense Attorney Jerry Giesler had failed in an effort to secure an earlier date. Judge Brand explained the crowded condition of the calendar prevented the trial being held in December as Giesler had requested. Flynn's $1,000 bond was continued.

Giesler and Deputy District Attorney Thomas Cochran informed the court they expected the trial to last two weeks.

Flynn, who was held for trial after a three and a half day preliminary hearing, repeatedly has denied the accusations.

His accusers, 16-year-old Peggy LaRue Satterle and Betty Hansen, a year older, already have utilized a municipal court preliminary hearing to tell how they allegedly were attacked aboard Flynn's yacht and in a movie colony mansion.

President Writes Morocco Sultan

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—President Roosevelt, in a letter to the Sultan of Morocco, made public at the White House today, declared that the United States victory over the Germans and Italians "will inaugurate a period of peace and prosperity" for the Moroccan and French people in North Africa.

The president's letter was sent to the Moroccan sultan, Sidi Mohammed, at the time of the United States invasion of North Africa, but was not made public until today.

In his letter, the president declared that he was "highly pleased to learn of the admirable spirit of cooperation that is animating you and your people in their relationship with the French administration and with the forces of my country."

Much To Be Thankful For

The traditional Thanksgiving feast will be tempered with a bitter sweetness this year in Pennsylvania—bitter, because so many of the boys are on the battle fronts, sweet because of the blessings we still can enjoy in this "Birthstate of the Nation," a freedom once gained and for which again our boys are fighting.

Gives Six Tips To Alleviate Doctor Shortage

(International News Service) INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Because of the shortage of physicians, Dr. John W. Ferrer, head of the Indiana state board of health, has made six suggestions to the general public. They are:

1. Take care of your health.
2. Go to a physician; don't make him come to you unless it's absolutely necessary.
3. Don't call your physician at night unless necessary. See him during the day.
4. If a doctor must visit your home, telephone his office in the morning, so that he can route his calls.
5. If your family doctor is called to service, choose another physician immediately; don't wait until an emergency to try to find one. Expectant mothers should arrange for delivery early in pregnancy.
6. And, finally, be patient.

(International News Service) HUNTER INJURED UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 24.—The name of Elmer Pritts, 14, of near Indian Head, was added today to the ever-growing list of hunting fatalities. The youth accidentally shot himself in the chest as he grabbed a shotgun after the dogs had scared out a rabbit at the end of a slow hunting day.

NOW SHE SHOPS "CASH AND CARRY"

Without Painful Backache Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or watery passages with smarting and burning some-times show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Luftwaffe Is 'Not So Strong'

British Air Attache Asserts Power Not As Effective As Early In War

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN (U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—Germany's Luftwaffe is now "fully stretched" and its effectiveness has been greatly diminished, Air Commodore H. N. Thornton, British air attache in Washington, declared in an interview Monday.

He made this assertion in reply to a question, "What's happened to the Luftwaffe?" The Luftwaffe hasn't made a mass attack on England since July, 1941.

The relentless and systematic bombing of German and Italian industrial centers by British and American flyers, he said, is weakening the fighting potentialities of the Axis forces in Europe and doing a great deal toward hastening the end of the war.

"German industry is the foundation of Germany's military strength," he pointed out, adding:

"As our bombing strength develops—as it will—the blows from the air will become heavier and will have a further weakening effect upon the German forces, which are still formidable."

Commenting on the R.A.F.'s 1,000-plane raid on Cologne last summer, Air Commodore Thornton said the results achieved could be compared to the damage in the San Francisco earthquake-fire in which 28,000 buildings were destroyed.

"I would say the Cologne damage was greater," he said. "We destroyed 250 factories, damaged or destroyed 20,000 buildings and damaged 20,000 more structures. Following the raid more than 200,000 people left Cologne."

Thornton then asked: "What will happen to Germany if all its industrial cities suffer to a similar capacity?"

He said the R.A.F., together with the U. S. air force in England, is now hitting Germany regularly and hard, "weakening the German army no matter where it may be."

Results of the bombing of Italy are "quite remarkable," he said. He explained that the allied flyers go by a circuitous route. The Italians, he continued, let go a "belch of flack" when the allied flyers near a target "and then the flack dies out."

The Germans, however, keep on firing when one of their towns are attacked.

The commodore said that on the last raid on Turin, participated in by hundreds of planes, the allies lost only three planes.

Ligonier Nurse Dies In African Action

(International News Service) LIGONIER, Pa., Nov. 24.—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Irwin, of Ligonier, received word on Monday from the war department advising them of the death of their daughter, Lieut. Gertrude G. Irwin, 24, a graduate nurse, in action in Africa, November 14.

Lieut. Irwin enlisted in the army last January after serving two years as a nurse in the Westmoreland hospital, Greensburg. She was the first Westmoreland county nurse to be killed while on foreign service.

She is survived by her parents, five brothers and sisters.

OCD NOTES

Activities Of O. C. D. Workers Are Outlined In This Column

WARDEN POST SIGNS

Wardens' post signs are "springing up" all over the city. Some wardens are also having signs placed on their homes so people will know where they reside. Frank Sargent, city co-ordinator for the OCD would like to know what posts have signs.

GETTING ADVICE

It was reported today at the city OCD that OCD workers attached to precincts throughout the country are availing themselves of the usefulness of the city office by asking for advice and instructions which is cheerfully given.

CORRECT ADDRESS

When a member of the OCD moves from one location to another he should immediately communicate the fact to the city OCD, 6586. This applies especially to wardens and fire-watchers. The precinct senior warden should also be notified. This is the only way a check on the number of workers can be known.

NOT HERE "ON ORDER"

The city OCD stated today that it has new helmets "on order" but as yet 950, for which an invoice has been received, have not arrived. However, there is available "decals" or "transfers" for helmets issued in November and those who want to have the insignia placed on helmets should go to the city office and secure the "transfers."

George Junior Republic Marine Killed In Action

(Special To The News) GROVE CITY, Nov. 24.—George Washington Bees, 20, of the U. S. Marine Corps, was killed in action in the Solomons, according to word received here. Bees, a former president of the George Junior Republic here, is Grove City's second victim of World War II, the first having been Seaman Jack Huff, a classmate of Bees in the 1941 graduates of the local high school.

On October 26 Superintendent Arthur Prasse of the Republic received a letter from Bees in which he told his former superintendent not to worry about him.

No details were given in the message. Bees enlisted in the Marines in July, 1941, shortly after getting his diploma from the high school. With him went two other Republic boys. They stayed together during all of their training, and it is presumed that they are also in the Solomons.

Coffee Registrations Of Institutions Are Being Investigated

(Special To The News) PITTSBURGH, Nov. 24.—The entire investigation staff of the Pittsburgh office of price administration district office today began a check of the institutional coffee users in the sixteen counties which come under the jurisdiction of the Pittsburgh office.

Registration of institutional coffee users began today and will continue today and Wednesday. All of them must register with their local ration boards.

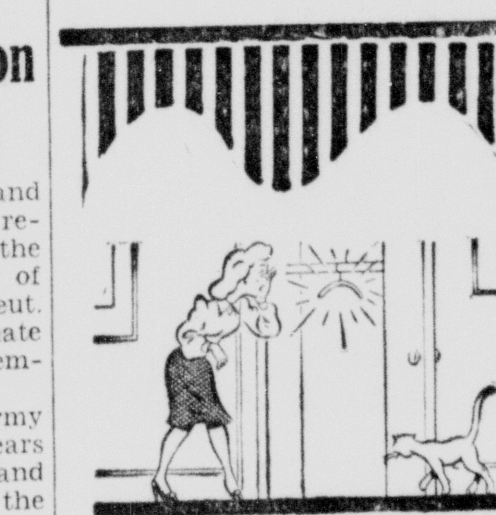

Walter R. Cartwright, district manager of the OPA, said that his investigators will check the information given by institutional coffee users when they register, their inventories and the amounts purchased and consumed by them during the last two months.

Anti-Poll Tax Bill Tieup Ends

Senate Takes Up Routine Measures After Bill Has Been Displaced

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The senate on Monday killed the anti-poll tax bill for the present session of congress after a motion to limit debate and break a nine day filibuster was defeated.

Immediately after the vote, the senate by unanimous consent displaced the bill and began consideration of routine measures.

The vote for adoption of cloture (limitation of debate) was 37 yeas and 41 nays, the motion failing because a two thirds vote was required.

Both chief sponsors and leading opponents of the measure had entered into a "gentleman's agreement" to drop the bill for the session of cloture was rejected, although any individual member has the right to press for consideration of the bill.

Sen. Tom Connally (D) Tex., leader of the opposition, was jubilant over the vote. Connally led a nine-day filibuster against the bill, with the intention of carrying it until the end of the session on January 3 if necessary.

The bill, which had previously passed the house, prohibited eight southern states from demanding payment of a poll tax as a prerequisite to voting for candidates for federal office.
